

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Women Speak Up

July 25, 2026

Women Speak Up Launches NextGen WSU for Young Women in Toronto

New initiative invites women ages 18–25 to find their voice, build community and help shape the future of Women Speak Up

TORONTO, ON — Women Speak Up will officially launch NextGen WSU, a new initiative created for women ages 18–25 in Toronto, on Saturday, July 25, 2026, at AM Coffee Studio located on 2233 Dundas St W, Toronto.

The launch event will introduce young women to a growing community where they can share their perspectives, ask questions, connect with the Women Speak Up team and learn about opportunities to become involved in the organization's Youth Advisory Hub and Board of Directors.

"NextGen WSU is about creating space for young women to be heard and giving them meaningful opportunities to contribute, connect and lead," said Vivian Udoji, Stakeholder Engagement Coordinator. "We want participants to know that their experiences and ideas matter—and that they do not have to wait until later in their careers or lives to make an impact."

Guests will enjoy light refreshments while participating in engaging discussions, an open mic and networking opportunities with other young women, all while learning more about Women Speak Up's vision for the new initiative.

Event details

What: NextGen WSU Official Launch

When: Saturday, July 25, 2026, from 6:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Where: AM Coffee Studio, 2233 Dundas St W, Toronto, ON M6R 1X6

Who: Women ages 18–25 in Toronto

About NextGen WSU

NextGen WSU is a Women Speak Up initiative designed for women ages 18–25 in Toronto. It provides opportunities for young women to share their voices, build meaningful connections and help shape initiatives that reflect their needs and experiences.

About Women Speak Up

Women Speak Up is a community-focused nonprofit organization. It provides a supportive forum for women to share their stories, build confidence, and develop leadership skills for positive impact at home, work, and in the community.

Media contact

Afuwa Renner
Digital Marketing and Communications Consultant
Women Speak Up
communications@womenspeakup.ca