

Manifesto Against Forced Citizenship

An Argument against the Enslavement of all Peoples through Citizenship

Currently you are a human being traveling on a planet, Earth, that has its own unhuman functions in the middle of space adjunct between two other planets. All the while Earth is holding captive a smaller rock and everything in the solar system is being held in orbit by a bright glowing orb. Together, all your masses are hurling at the breakneck speed of 1 million miles per hour through the cosmos; while you are more than likely standing at true angle of 24 degrees as you spin in a circular motion at 1,000 miles per hour. With every tick of any amount of time, the galaxy you reside in pulls you into a space you have never been before and never will be again. As it comes and goes in the flash of an eye and within the next hour you will have traveled the distance equivalent to circling the Earth forty-two times. These celestial forces are not governed by any creature ever made and they are the true determining factors of your ability to exist. For, at any moment the Sun could erupt and wipe out every bit of human technology, the Earth could stop spinning, the Moon could run into an asteroid (or bring one into its orbit) or the mysterious force that causes the Milky Way to spin in one direction could just stop. Leaving those forces as the only true bearers of the providential truth that all life on Earth has its own self sovereign right to traverse & survive on it.

For if any one of those destructive, era ending, and cataclysmic things happen (which all very well could, and some would say have and will again). Then no one, the universe, or deity for that matter would at that moment stop and ask, "Passport Please". Instead, we would all in that moment, come to realize the lie that has been forced upon us; the lie that says we are to be citizens of a certain country just because we are born there or because its masters lay claim to a made-up number of each person born within a geographical area. A deception derived by theory that runs contrary to the truth of the millenniums, the truth that any one human has just as much right as any other to navigate the entire Earth as they see fit for themselves. All because they are equal heirs to the survival of humanity on this planet.

This lie was developed to enslave entire populations across this wonderous globe from their rights as mammals to traverse it as their instincts see fit. Not only are we physical mammals, but arguably the most cognitive creations who have reigned over this planet. This cognitive power has been able to be developed even deeper because of our ability to journey, to seek better environments to procreate and the internal desire to make discovery. And just like every other mammal when given breath, we know that our survival is anchored in our individual sovereign right to move freely and roam this most beautiful blue marble as needed.

However, even with all this cognitive ability there have arisen a few who continually seek to victimize their fellow homo-sapiens by enslaving them to arbitrary lines called borders. Even though the Earth in the last few millennia, herself has not changed, with the man-made creation of nation states just a few thousand years ago; these borders have drastically changed from age to age. All depending upon the evil human desire to wield force to conquer another causing change in these invisible made-up lines each time. Therefore, making them non-constants; but humans have always had the right to be seekers of a safer more peaceful place to live with their own will and resources. The latest blow to the human's right to expand their own thoughts, seek safety, find more suitable climates and desire for discovery has been fabricated by forcing them into citizenship. This latest form of oppression was conjured as a way for the thieving elite to be the few out of the billions who use citizenship to enslave everyone else. They use their internment camps called nation states, to create a world where only they are capable to see, partake and immerse themselves without barrier to every square inch of something that rightfully belongs to us all.

If this was not already evil enough, many of these slave overseers called, Presidents, Prime Ministers, Kings, Queens, and Religious Clerics; say we must bow the knee to them and give our time, energy, and resources to their master elite class, because they say it is law. At any moment one of these masters or overseers may decide that they are not getting all they feel entitled too, so then they force their slave class called, citizens, to become soldiers on their battle fields to fight for what they view is their right to make war. All the while these elite puppeteers and their seed will never see one moment of battle; but they will be the ones gaining the most when the battle is won (or lost) through the slave's energy. For example, in the United States of America, every male at the age of 18 must sign away their life, through the arbitrary law of Selective Service, and if they do not, then they will be further enslaved with fines, imprisonment, no rights to live and travel freely as they see fit for themselves. But they were promised by the founders Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness? What if a person's view of life, liberty and happiness is not fighting for a cause they see as unjust and question why their elite counterparts are not held to the same standard? With all these rhetorical questions and statements, the cord holding forced citizenship together is quickly tattered as it will become even more evident through this document that it is the largest deception one group of humans has ever put over another.

As science tells us, every person is linked back to one woman. So how along the way did this lie take root? While I am a believer in the One True Living God and believe He is the One that gave us life and believe my citizenship is and can only ever be in a spiritual Kingdom governed only by the Creators. He alone was the One that gave us all the Earth. Even though my belief may bleed over into this document. I know that one cannot come at this man-made fabrication of forced citizenship with religion, political leanings, or emotions. However, it is the natural and historical evidence that is the witness and bearer of truth. One thing it is witnessed to is that we, like the patriarchs of this planet are all born free and the Earth is all of ours. It proves we should have the freedom to continue the expansion of our cognitive ability without man-made fabrications like nation states forcing others to fight and pay for selfish wars or to help this elite class gather more resources via our personal energy. We, just as our ancestors, should be able to freely seek safer shelter, climates we feel better suited to, and peace as we please. The historical evidence proves being forced into citizenship of any country holds no scientific, human, or universal merit. So, let us explore this lie, expand our wits, and stand on the truth that we are all just as free as Mother Eve was to sow her seed and take hold of her own private property in the places she felt, or we feel was and is best for ourselves and our family.

- The Lie of Forced Citizenship -

The Lie's underlying tenets:

- A person who is born by no choice of their own in a land, area or man-made nation state by a woman who made the choice to give birth there.
- That person, without their consent, is then given documentation by whoever calls that woman their citizen (slave) and now they are citizens of the same land as their biological mother.
- Then that person is supposedly bound by man-made laws that they will have to submit to the will of the masters of that land. The masters of the land then demand that for the rest of that person's life (from birth to death) they can and will have to go to war, use their personal resources and personal energy as the masters see fit.
- Throughout their entire life, the person is never presented with the option to not participate in the land's evil doings. For example, the United States of America's master's decision to supply weapons to kill innocent children in Yemen at the behest of even eviler master, Saudi Arabia, is on the so called "American Citizen" and is their "Taxpayer Responsibility" to help fund these evil doings in the name of "Helping an Allie". If a person born in these lands reject the master's calls to use their energy, self-earned income, and sons to help kill other humans; well then, the masters will see it their "right" to further enslave the person or surrender them to a sword. Never is the person given the right to choose where their personal resources, including their sons and daughters, are used and how they are used. Instead, the masters of the land use them as they see fit sowing that person into the evil plauquing the Earth, making them an evil doer in the process.
- Then when the person dies, the masters of the land decide how much of their hard work, personal ingenuity, and life's passion they can leave for the ones they love.

The above tenets are cloaked and wrapped up in whatever the land's masters want to wrap it in, whether it be a flag and patriotism or religious duty. The masters force the overseers to make a heavy reinvestment of the resources collected through their slave's energy, to indoctrinate the coming brood of children born as they see it. By forcing parents to do things they may not see best fitted for their families, from schooling methods to forcing their sons into military service. In the case of America, the masters give their citizenship system a motto "Price of Freedom"; what price exactly is that; the cost of millions of human lives for their so-called sovereignty to be respected? A system developed in coordination with others that has put boundaries on its inhabitants and as discovered earlier these boundaries are bound to fail. Meaning that in the time these boundaries existed the humans born there were robbed of their unalienable rights to freely move and explore. A system that disregards a human's right to personal belief in their own personal sovereignty and forcing them into debt & duty that is the cause of much destruction and death. Why does the person never have the option not to be bound to the master's murderous, greed filled, and sinister plans? Why is it the citizen slave's self-made resources that must be used? Why does the human born in a land that is foreign to his self-belief have to live there? Why can't a human born in 2023 and beyond be just as free as his patriarchs of old, and be able to expand their knowledge of this wonderful home, Earth?

The answer is because they are forced to live an inhumane deception. A deception built through the forced nationalizing of peoples, all because some other human says since they were born there/or the masters say they have claim to the that person's biological mother. Calling them citizens and making them slaves. Erasing their rights to move away from danger (human or nature made) and forcing them to use their energy for matters that run contrary to their personal belief.

When researching the origins of “citizenship”, one will be hard pressed to find it having any real prominence up until the last few hundred years; much less in its current form of today’s heavy-handed restrictions on a human’s right to move freely, worship freely or seek safer climates as they see fit for their lives from place to place. For millennium, even though Kings and religious clerics would rise and enslave a population through brute force, humans have always had the right to either fight back or flee the persecution. Never in all the world’s history has the entire world been fully enslaved via forced citizenship. Its creators were very cunning in how they were able to move the world’s population under their control. Their aims would be to use forced citizenship to strip all populations of private property, individual sovereignty and funnel most resources to the elite class. Consider where we are today, less than 6,000 people own most of the assets and have built through their puppeteering asset havens so that their assets are not subject to any governing body. Another great highlight that brings forth the fact the elite can do things the rest of the world does not have access to because of forced citizenship; is at this time in 2023, the elite have been able to amass trillions more in wealth via the sequestering of people’s rights during and post the Coronavirus Pandemic. This is not just by chance, rather it was a piece of their design to move the populations of Earth into their full control. A design that was put into motion within the last 450 years, by very secretive reformist group(s) who have successfully built a world where all others must transact through them. They have designed a world where it appears that everyone is a citizen of their own nation; but all these humans are nothing more than cogs in the wheel that greases the wealth and energy transfer known as banking. It is a design that ties every human into one machine so that the elite who own the banks and corporations will solely profit. Consider this, can you ever really own your house? When these reformists conjured this modern-day heist of Earth, as referenced in The Creature from Jekyll Island, they went out of their way to be extremely secretive. This secrecy is hidden by the power of the bank, which in the end owns everything. Which is pure evil, because all of what Earth has to offer is everyone’s. However, because they have built this debt-based interest baring portion of their enslavement potion, the common person can never truly be free to own anything or to discover at will. All because they are too busy creating wealth for the elite, via taxation of their energy & assets along with making people pay interest to acquire items to use. And if someone ever does finally grab ahold of the understanding that their energies are being stolen for the greater evil, they are further enslaved and imprisoned for thinking freely for seeking a peaceful way of life. A way of life that doesn’t fund things like the military industrial complex, big pharma, or corporate welfare.

In the case of America, one should not find it coincidental why the 14th amendment that came directly after the supposed abolishment of slavery with the 13th amendment was decreed. Or find it odd that the 13th amendment was designed not to abolish slavery, rather only to transfer the right to have slaves from unincorporated persons to the incorporated powers of THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA...

Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

With the foundation of slavery through conviction (seen today as the Prison Industrial Complex), which to this day is ripe with corruption and still seeks to primarily enslave people of color and the poor. The overseers as directed, developed an even more sinister Reform for the United States. One that would funnel more profits, resources and rights to the ruling elite banker class that took hold after the Civil War by establishing a mandatory nationalizing of all persons born on their self-claimed soil, as clearly stated in the 14th...

All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside.

For further clarity for the reader that does not fully understand the above section; it means you are the “subject” – Noun- One that is placed under authority or control” of to the “jurisdiction” – Noun - The official power to make legal decisions and judgments” where you were born or made “Naturalized” – Verb- To cause (something, such as a person) to become established as if “native”. Meaning, by this decree that purposely “bastardized” - Adj.- altered from an original in a way that diminishes quality or “legitimacy” the original intent and hard work of the founders document that said we here on this soil would have the unalienable rights to Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness. With this amendment, the Reformist of the United States would strip away via forced citizenship all the rights given by the Bill of Rights that included an individual’s right to have their own decisions and judgements to move freely, speak freely, to not partake in war and to have full religious freedom and to not be taxed on their income.

Even though this amendment runs completely contrary to the Bill of Rights; the Reformist did not care to consider the intended consequences or even the unintended consequences of it. For example, because we are now citizens, we can no longer claim our income and its by-products as our own, as promised by the founders. Instead, we are “subject” now to the theft of our self-made and self-earned income, property, and labor via taxation, eminent domain, or imprisonment. Their decision was not one that was for any other class of people other than the banker elitist who puppeteer these supposedly duly elected politicians by way of lobby, bribes, and black mail.

Once it became clear to these elitists, most of which were not Americans (i.e., Rothschilds), that they had gained control of the political class. They were able to then become the decision makers in Washington. They have trampled “by the people for the people” under their feet. They would then use these new forced citizens to go lay waste to the world to funnel even more resources to themselves under the cloak of bringing the rule of democracy to the world. In the coming few decades after the 14th was established, they would invent even more ways to further enslave populations and limit the rights of mankind.

With the invention of a “passport” (in the form of identifying a person’s “nationality”) after WWI the masters would ensure that the unalienable right of every man to be nomadic if they so choose would never be respected ever again. Now they have used every chance they could to impose more and more restrictions on the Earth’s population. As we have seen since the man-made orders of the pandemic of 2020. Painting more man-made invisible lines saying you cannot cross here without permission, and you cannot stay there over a certain amount of time without their permission.

Some will try and argue that forms of a passport can be found in antiquity and there is evidence that some forms of it did exist. For the greatest part of these they were “request” for safe travels of a king’s delegation from one part of the world to another. However, never was the passport used to proclaim a one’s so called, nationality; forcing them to have to go back to whatever land that has laid claim of them. Forcing people into a system that limits their universal right to move freely as they see fit for themselves, because now their nationality is the deciding factor over their personal choice.

This would completely wipe out the fact that for the largest part of mankind’s history, men have been free to move as they saw fit. Sure, they would have had to calculate if the challenges of doing so and if it were what they personally wanted. But whether it be Abraham’s journeys in the 2nd millennium BCE, the Vikings exploring the Americas in the 8th– 12th centuries, the pilgrims leaving tyranny in the 17th century or the desire for the settlers to move westward in the Americas in the 18th -19th century; the only thing that stood in a human’s way to his right to travel to a new place and possibly consider that new place home, was their resolve to use their own resources to do so.

Granted, all throughout history man has unjustifiably taken other men slave which limited those slaves unalienable right to freedom. However, it was not right then nor is it now. For millenniums, humans had the right to seek freedom and that was the case in America up until the advent of citizenship and its implementation in the 19th century through the 14th amendment. Now, the evil of slavery has been masquerading in the dress of citizenship. Resulting in the death of people’s own personal sovereign rights, the use of the citizen’s resources to make war and help the elite funnel more resources to themselves by ensuring the citizen would never be able to truly own anything ever again.

While this is the case in United States of America, similar reforms would occur throughout the world at the same time as the world became more and more under the centralized control of the elitist banker class who seek to ensure they and they alone are the ones who own all the world’s resources. But what is so grotesque about the Reformist American’s part in the lie is they have purposely deceived the American population that they are “Free”. Yet, there is nothing further from the truth. All one must do is review all the ways thus described in this document how they are no longer partakers of in the bastions of freedom. Like the fact you can never own private property, your sons must go to war when selected and you are prohibited from moving freely as you see fit for yourself. At least in other places where citizenship/nationality is enforced by Kings, Queens, and Religious Clerics do not deceive their slaves with a false sense of freedom.

No matter where nationality or citizenship is enslaving people the point of this manifesto is to show and provide some historical context that humans have rights and should not be subjected to the evil of forced citizenship. The hope of this document is, people will see what has and is happening to them is not only a man-made lie, but most of today’s world population has been deceived that it is a benefit worth fighting for. Throughout the world there are humans ready to end others’ lives at the command of their overseers, because of this deception. Fully disregarding the basic moral laws written on our souls. And in the case of the Christian, forgetting what we have been called to and that is to owe no man anything other than the debt of love (not bullets or National Interest) and that we are only citizens of God’s Kingdom.

Forgetting any other class of hominoid and focusing solely on the scientific proof that every homo sapiens sapiens (mankind as present today) genetic makeup shares one single woman as the mother of all. It is most logical to start with her testimony, as we are all heirs to what she taught and left us. She would bear sons and daughters and they too would continue to procreate. As their populations grew more and more, our common ancestors would provide us all with a pattern of behavior. A pattern that is genetically engrained into the cerebrum of all homo sapiens sapiens thanks to this single woman's genetic impression of her tactics for self-discovery, self-preservation, self-sovereignty and overcoming both man-made and Earth challenges. These behaviors and freedoms have been given to us all because we are all her children.

As their populations grew so did the challenges facing each generation. Whether the challenge was man-made or Earth forces; for millennium, her descendants have had the right to move freely guided by their genetic impressions given to them by her and added to by their lineages. These ancestral traits are built into us all and because of that fact; we can face the challenges ever persistent on this Earth by moving away from danger, seeking food sources, using our intuition, being innovative, taking control of the beast of the field & sea, and foraging and harvesting the land all the while having an overwhelming desire to improve one's quality of life. Her genetic code is the greatest gift imparted to us all. Whether you are a creationist or evolutionist; there is no denying the fact she is a part of every human's genome.

She was free, her offspring were free, and freedom to move as they saw fit for themselves went on for millennia. If there is one single congenital trait that they imparted to us, it is that humans are to be free. Because through her we are all heirs to the Earth she, they, and us have right to freely explore and conquer. Unfortunately, maybe because of inbreeding, humans have conflated conquering their environments with the lust of enslaving others to do it for them. Currently, as stated, an exceedingly small group of humans have gone full throttle to enslave as many as possible through the invention of forced citizenship; forcing people to give up their ancestral unalienable right of these freedoms. The argument of the need to restrict people's free movement and to push them into managed population centers, is because they cannot fend for themselves otherwise, which has no merit. For example, as we saw in 2020, entire populations were forced into lockdowns managed by a hand full of people and their theories. In doing so they took away every human's right to question or leave their physical position on Earth to avoid getting sick, resulting in far more death. We can look back in our history and observe that even when population centers would pop up, people were free to either partake or leave as they saw fit for themselves, unless they were enslaved. This included times of plague and famine; because of the human's right to move freely away from these dangers into safer more acceptable situation; helping us to avoid extinction.

As highlighted in those populations in our history that did not use to their ancestral cerebrum and its primal mode of moving freely away from danger and into areas to seek better sources of food, more forgiving climates, or away from man-made dangers (like invasions) they fell prey to eradication. There are endless examples of humans using their right of free movement all throughout our existence as the primary reason a lineage survived any kind of danger. Today, however, populations are forced into a draconian over-surveilled mad house where a few humans can claim a person is nationalized to a certain part of the world, just because they were born there. In the case of America, the founders knew their survival hinged on leaving the tyranny of forced citizenship; and proclaimed that humans have the right to be free, not because it was law, but because it was an unalienable right that no man is greater than any other man and they each have the right to move as they so freely desire. This should cause the reader to reflect and to consider reclaiming their self-sovereignty that was handed down from the mother of all and to call forced citizenship exactly what it is, slavery. A form of slavery that has used the reader's energy, along with the rest of Earth's population, to enrich a small group of humans and ensures future generations will never have the right to move on or off Earth as they see fit for themselves.

- Understanding Self Sovereignty -

Just like mitochondrial Eve or Eve as one may see and believe; all humans are genetically given the right to be self-sovereign. As a result, they are capable of thinking, processing, and being proactive or reactive to any given situation they find themselves. For example, if there is a volcano erupting near one's location; one would use this genetic trait to determine that surviving means evading the danger the volcano presents to their life. This may mean uprooting their entire family and moving a few miles away or even hundreds of miles away, depending on how they personally felt about the situation. The challenge the volcano presents to their existence would not be evident to humans if they were not aware of the self-preserving right of self-sovereignty to make the personal decision to move away from it to a better environment. Instead, without being aware of their human self-sovereign right to traverse Earth as they see fit for themselves, they would perish.

Self-sovereignty is not just about seeking safer places to survive, it is also the reason humans have their own personal choice, beliefs, ingenuity, energy to provide for themselves as they see fit, private property, and privacy. All these traits that self-sovereignty gives to all living creatures, specifically in the case of humans, is whipped away with the advent of forced citizenship. Therefore, it is important to understand we all still have intact our self-sovereignty and can stop the destructive, vile, and evil force of forced citizenship.

One must ask, if the fact that forced citizenship is slavery; how did the entire world allow itself to become enslaved to it? This subject and the evidence could be expanded upon at length that could fill the pages of dozens of books; however, this is only a short form document meant for the reader to go seek more of the truth and take a stand for their rights to be free. This may be the most boring section of this document; however, it might be the most important as it lays out the true human timeline of how we were tricked into forced citizenship. So, here is the synopsis if you will of the how and why the reader is most likely a current inmate of which ever country has nationalized them and their spawn. The following is a mere summation of key changes in human behavior over the course of thousands of years. However, its importance is to generalize on the point of how we lost our sight on being free.

Humans enslaving other humans has been around in some form and fashion for thousands of years; most notably though, there was not mass enslavement of entire populations until the advent of nation states came onto the scene approximately 4,000 years ago. Up until this point, the prior 10,000 years that had past humans would only rarely enslave those they had fought. Most of skirmishes were regional and only between tribes fighting over certain resources in an area. There is much evidence these groups would most often steer clear of each other and even work together to socialize, meaning there was no propensity in their human nature for war. Also, there is no evidence that people were not allowed to leave the tribe if they wanted to leave and seek their own land or a new tribe to join. As matter of fact, the historical record proves that since most had been hunter gathers for the millenniums prior, the practice of migrating great distances to find food & safer climates to have a higher quality of life was quite common. Furthermore, when humans had made the decision to work as a group in this tribal form the record shows that there was no wealth inequality, no classes existed, and there was no crime amongst themselves, which culminated in them producing one of the most artistic, intuitive, and inventive eras in mankind's history.

As their populations would grow there would be a thought of the greater need for more reliable sources of food. There is much debate on whether humans invented crops to grow or with their travels they found areas where edible crops grew abundantly, and they learned to cultivate them. No matter where one stands on this chicken or egg argument, one thing is for certain, these humans started turning themselves into farmers and would start breeding animals they could domesticate for sources of food. This would mean there would be less and less need to migrate to find food. However, as these societies grew it turns out the invention of agriculture and depending on it for food would be devastating to humans. Because once they moved into these agrarian lifestyles the work life balance would flip in a way that would not allow time for discovery or art. As the hours of the daylight were needed for cultivating, harvesting, and herding. With the long day's work behind them the night was spent for physical rest for the next day's agricultural challenges. Then because they had adapted themselves away from their hunter gather freedom to depend on these food sources; when the Earth, Sun or Universe would reap harm to their crops or animals without them having full discovery of the science behind the trouble. This is when we see the "blame game", for lack of a better laymen's term, really start to take root in human societies.

The birth of societal violence, discrimination, the formation of classes, dependance on creature gods for answers, and slavery would be the blame game's, byproduct. As it turns out, depending on crops for food is the first turn humans took that got us to where we are now where every human on Earth is enslaved by way of manmade naturalization. Because someone(s) had made the decision to break away from an all-shared model that their hunter gather forefathers had and those someone(s) would perform one of the first psyops on other humans, when they convinced the others in the tribe that they had been “chosen”. A psyops that is still very much alive today. Ask yourself (as those in the tribe should have when someone(s) pulled the rug over their eyes) do you really believe that any other human is really “chosen” by a high power to have the right to force you into a lower cast, serfdom, forced citizenship, or primitive slavery for the sole purpose of their own success. The chosen narrative would be the next turn humans took to ensnare themselves in the lie.

This process is classically highlighted in ancient Egypt; where it is seen that Afro-Eurasia hunter gatherers starting to form tribes along the Nile River because its consistent & fertile water way provided for them to develop this agrarian lifestyle around 6000-4000 B.C. The Nile for the most part was plentiful in many ways for these peoples. However, thanks to science, we know today it is prone to a 7-year cycle of drought and floods. With their limited knowledge of this science these tribes are seen to be one of the first in mankind’s history to use the blame game to develop creature gods as way of understanding cause and effect. Humans in these tribes were called to figure out how to communicate with these gods and develop their storylines. While many have theorized, and much is left to debate because of Egyptologist knowledge suppression; no one really knows how or when these tribes started picking other humans to practice divination and magic to communicate with these creature gods who they believed their lives depended upon. The only thing that is certain is that these humans because they had abandoned their ancestral freedom of moving away from danger, like droughts, started to rely on their manmade myth & superstition to explain everything from the Sun’s rising to the Nile’s lifecycle.

This would be the path for many of the tribes that settled the Nile delta from 4000 B.C. to around 3600 B.C. when they independently developed their own creature gods; it was only a matter of time for one tribe to believe their god and their chosen were better than someone else’s. There is not a lot of information available as it is suppressed by Egyptologist; however, what is known is these tribes would for the first time in their regional history go to war with one another for resources they believed their gods said they could have at the direction of their chosen ones. Culminating in the formation of the first nation states lead by these chosen ones, first called Kings then called Pharaohs, and their demand for the use of slavery as a resource to grow their societal demands.

History tells us that many other humans inhabiting the world around this time started to pursue this agrarian lifestyle, we can see many parallels with the Egyptian story from Mesopotamia to the far East. As the millenniums moved forward these regional chosen ones of the nation states would seek to grow their power, they believed bestowed upon them by their gods. Causing another turning, with the development of the dynasties and empires of old.

Through the ages, these dynasties & empires would turn into countries, then countries into unions and commonwealths. All the while the humans that were the self-proclaimed chosen would build upon the lessons of statehood and would develop even more ways of enslaving others for their own personal gain. For example, because of the English Crown and its family’s actions to make war and enslave, the King of England is still allowed to say he alone, owns over 6.6 billion acres of the Earth. A whopping 20% of all the land available on planet Earth. These territories he currently says he owns make up India, Australia, Canada, Britain, and large portions of other continents. All places where people are forced to be citizens and to bow their knee & to kiss his ring; because he says that he, through a law his family made up, also owns everyone and everything on those lands. Think of it, one person is literally allowed to claim to 20% of the world's land while forcing 2.5 billion people (30% of the Earth's population) to be his slaves through forced citizenship via the Commonwealth. None of these people can ever own their own lands and much of these lands have the highest poverty, tax, and death rates of anywhere in the world. But because the Crown is allowed to make these inhumane claims; if not stopped, well then his heirs will be able to continue to enslave 1/3 of the world's population and use those people's personal energy to continue to amass more and more of the world's resources for their own. He alone forces over 2 billion people to live in extreme poverty where over 60% do not even have electricity and are forced to give much of their limited earnings to his commonwealth in return for a daily bowl of rice. Resulting in him alone amassing a personal wealth of an estimated 27 trillion pounds and is surrounded by luxury.

There is no time in mankind's history where such a wealth gap, lack of self-sovereignty and lack of freedom has ever existed. Where 3 humans (King Charles, King Salman of Saudi Arabia, and Xi Jinping of China) have sole rights to profiteering off the enslavement of half the world's population. Because of their wealth and power these three people and their small group of elite financiers control almost every major world industry from natural resources to the media. Specifically, with the Crown's profiteering, they have built up within their ranks a powerful elite class of bankers who control the world's monetary supply whose tentacles reach out and kill without regard anyone who challenges them. In the case of America, the founders were able to stave off these throws of evil through their Revolutionary efforts; however, in the late 19th century these nasty and greedy banker elites (working for the Crown) would grab hold of the Union and choke out of it all the original rights afforded to it. They were able to achieve this by building an intricate & secret lobby where they used their power and greed to impart a new Reformed system. A system that had no regard for the Bill of Rights, the rights the founders had said were inalienable, like self-sovereignty and freedom of belief. This took place during the time of 1860-1920 A.D. as these banker elites would be allowed to create systems & write manmade laws enforced through amendments, that again, would wipe away the founder's original intent for the land that is called, United States of America. Leading to the current situation, where over the past 100 years they have subverted the population of America to use its personal energy to pay for more war & more destabilizing of free lands that allows them to corn hole the rest of the world into forced citizenship. Resulting in more debt and death than has ever happened in mankind's history. All the while because of the systems they developed, the elite have been able to funnel the opposite side of the public debt, which is true wealth by assets, to themselves alone.

All of this is creating a world where only a handful of people own every acre, every resource, and every soul through forced citizenship. Which is now leading them to rhyme with the history of nomads turning into tribes that turned into nation states that turned into countries, where they are turning countries into a global governance system. They will use the most extreme tactics such as forced famine, nuclear destruction of certain areas and the stripping of all self-sovereign rights in this next turn to further enslave the world's population. In which the result will be consolidating the whole of Earth's population into this global governing body. They will make the bold claim as they have for the last few hundred years that it is for the population of Earth's own good. These kinds of claims were the driving factor behind the pilgrim's quest west via their ancestral knowledge of their human unalienable right to evade dangers like having to bow to the Crown over their own personal belief system. Their last remaining barrier is to kill the ancestral knowledge of one's right to move away from danger, to not participate in wrongdoing, and to seek a life of peace. They are successfully causing the entire world, through forced citizenship, to partake in their debt and death scheme(s) that is enslaving all populations while creating for themselves more generational wealth. The turn towards one governing body of self-proclaimed chosen rulers, which will rule over all the Earth's population by forced citizenship is but mere years away. They will then be able to fully ensnare every human on Earth by titling each of them with a district and forcing them to give up all self-sovereign rights like private property, personal ingenuity, and the right to move freely away from danger. Forced citizenship was the biggest leap they needed in order to fulfill the long sought-after elite plan of a one world order where only a handful of humans fully control everything on Earth. Even though Earth was never theirs to take, they have successfully deceived all of mankind that it was and that they are the rulers, and you are their slave. Because you say nothing and buy into the lie of citizenship, you are ensuring your children will be ruled over by an evil that has not yet been seen. An evil that will control every single step they will take via AI controlled systems, microchips, and data harvesting. Which will allow these devilish creatures to further enslave humanity for centuries to come. If you do not wake up to your own self-sovereignty and right to life there is a good chance you too will be completely engulfed by the flames of the one world order.

NOTE: Because of extreme suppression of ancient text found in Egypt by Egyptologist, the narrative of the time before the rule of Kings & Pharaohs starting in 3150 B.C. is not widely known. Even though there are whistleblowers who say these Egyptologist have recovered the evidence of most of these individual tribe's creature gods, societal structures, and worship patterns; they will not allow for any other narrative then the one that drives their tourism industry. However, thanks to these whistleblowers we know there were "chosen" ones before the Kings, however their titles are unknown.

When approaching others on the subject matter of self-sovereignty and individualism not having to be attached to citizenship, a couple of questions are always raised that is more of an argument for a self-sovereign identity than merits for citizenship and borders. What about owning a home, taking care of roads, schools, policing crimes, and caring for communal places? If there aren't borders and the Earth is all of ours then how do these things get facilitated?

Firstly, just because someone does not claim to be a citizen of some man-made nation state, that does not mean they can't have their own space or community. As in days of past before Anglo-Saxons destroyed the indigenous people that had inhabited the land mass in the northern western hemisphere of the Earth. Each person had their right to traverse it at will. Granted it may not be the best idea to do it alone, so they formed communities. With community being a basic tenant of life, because humans' function at a much greater capacity when they cooperate with others to achieve a task. Being a part of a community gives them more personal power to achieve their own goals as well. It doesn't mean that one must be solely identified to just one community either. It is very possible that a human can want to live in place for a part of the year and in another for the other part of the year. When they are in each community their personal identity doesn't change, but their behavior may depend on how they see themselves within that given group. All to help ensure their own safety and others wellbeing. Furthermore, a human has the right to be alone away from the community on a place that they can properly manage, care for, do business on, create, and enjoy without the permission of any other human being. The assumption always being that they acquired that area in a fashion that did not harm another person. People also have an unalienable right to use that area, improve it and then sell it, barter for it or trade it without governance or taxation because it was their own power and resources that made it happen. If that person and their community decide to work together to provide infrastructure and have areas where they all agree are communal then there is nothing that stands in the way of everyone still owning their own private property while also agreeing to using some of their personal energy to facilitate community needs. However, a person may not want to be a part of community and may choose to go it alone completely. Considering they can only manage so much with their own personal energy and resources this person is not a danger to others because they are not worried about others if their privacy and lifestyle are respected.

Every human has written within themselves a basic code; much like what is described in the Bible, Koran, The Teachings of the Buddha, and so many other ancient texts. This genetic code given to us by Mother Eve, paints on our hearts right and wrong, which is why we know it is wrong to kill, steal, or destroy someone else or their things. Sometimes humans ignore this code can be too greedy and evil, like the Crown Prince of Saudi Arabia, and have their heart completely consumed with being bent on the destruction of others. Or the King of England who has amassed, at the cost of millions of lives, the largest land ownership in the world. The fact that one person and their family have gotten away with mass murder, genocide, and full-on destruction of entire civilizations; and yet still gets to make claim to all they "conquered" but can't truly manage is blithe on all of mankind's history. One person, just because the people of this planet are enslaved and are unwilling to stand up, owns 20% of Earth's land mass. If one really steps back and thinks about how preposterous that is, they will clearly see something is not right. However, because of their power, greed, and murderous lust to own everything they have built a system of news, media, and influencers to trick the masses into worshipping them. Even though most people know and behave in a way that is completely opposite to these evil elite.

The elite have gotten away with turning people's personal energy into their checkbook. A checkbook that takes from every living soul on this planet and has destroyed the fabric of community, private property, and self-sovereignty. We all know that we all have the right to be at peace with every living thing. Yet so many have lost sight of this. Due to the mind numbing & centuries old elite tactics of controlling what people can see, hear, smell, taste, or touch. Even though, it only takes a person a few seconds with some consideration to see we all have been deceived by an old evil and are acting in a fashion opposite of Mother Eve. She gave us all a piece of herself, making us all one very large family. Even though families don't always see eye to eye, something tells us we have the right to remain at peace. At times some families will want to war with one another. However, others have the right to evade and not partake. It is a right we all have, the right to be self-sufficient and sovereign; because she is our mother; she left inside of us all the strand of truth that we are all her heirs. Therefore, since the Earth is all of ours because it was Her's first; every person has the right to be free to move on it as they see fit.

- Final Thoughts -

I am no writer, famous person or even all that intelligent. These thoughts I have laid out weren't meant to be exact in form because I don't think it is possible to write all the errors of our ways in such a way. However, they are to encourage you to consider that humans, each and every one of them, have their own individual desires, needs, life choices, biological requirements and ancestral rights to be fully free. This means each of us should be able to traverse this planet as we see fit without being marked or forced to be slaves to something we will never agree with, like war, or using our personal resources/energy for each such evil. My desire is humanity awakens and at minimum those of us who do not wish to partake, make oaths or pledges to evil; have our rights fully restored.

The invention of citizenship was never meant to give someone freedom and rights, rather it makes a person drawing their first breath a slave immediately. How can you enslave something you didn't create? By doing so, robbing them of their sovereign right of personal choice & lifestyle. Punishing them to be a lifelong source of energy for the elite's evil and wrongdoing. Marking them with a number and code without their permission. There have been many prophets from every religion who have spoken that this would happen in the future; well, we are living it now. All these prophets like Daniel, Yeshua, the Buddha, and Muhammad ibn Abdullah warned us not to accept it, not to partake in banker schemes of interest, and not to take a man-made mark. They warned that some would face the sword because they stand opposed to such falsehoods, like one world governance and citizenship. They also promised that in the end Earth would be made new and through their enlightenment they have taught us that we are all brothers and sisters of the Creators and none of us have the right to own one another. Rather we are here to help each other, take care of the Earth and flourish. Even if you don't believe in what these prophets taught or Creation as our origins. Surely you know that slavery is wrong, taking someone's choice of life, body, energy, ingenuities, and peace is wrong and forcing. Furthermore, surely you can see that forcing others to use their own energy to fuel war, death and destruction is wrong. I know you do, because at our core we all start out with the same gift Mother Eve left us.

I am not certain of the origin of evil; but it does exist, and we have allowed evil to overtake good. But, in the end, it will be good that wins the race. Hopefully, this document stirs something inside you that will help good in its path of prevailing.
