LATINO LEADER OF THE MONTH

We strongly believe in the leading by example model. For this reason, we are taking a look at what our local Latino leaders are doing and how their vulnerabilities strengthen them as an individual and as a professional in their field. FACTS TO THINK ABOUT Latinos account for nearly 50% of all consumer spending and are the fastest-growing population group in the country. Much of this revenue goes back into the economy, creating demand for goods and services, which, in turn, helps create jobs.

one* of the 4 reasons 80% of small businesses fail the first 18 months is because of ineffective marketing strategies and implementation.

Gen X*

(ages 35 to 44) have 68% of purchasing power in America and drive heavy usage of print media, such as newspapers and magazines.

The graph above represents the percentage of consumers who engage in other, non-media activities while consuming a given type of media. A lower score on this graph means there is more focused attention on the medium.*

of undocumented immigrants are Latin Americans. They come with a strong mission to create their American Dream, which means they will look for local resources to help them make their purchasing decisions.

56%*

of Spanish-speaking Hispanics said that they were more loyal to companies that advertise in Spanish, regardless if they are bilingual as well. Connecting in their native language is a big element of trust.

32,000*

people in SLO county still have dial-up or no access to internet.

95%*

of Hispanic adults say it is important that future generations of Hispanics speak Spanish.

Understanding Cultural Mindset

It is more likely that first generation Latin Americans prefer to read or hear about what's going on in their community rather than leave their home to find out. Reasons include barriers to childcare, travel cost, language, family dynamics, culture adaptation, and distrust of authority figures.

Their distrust of authority figures is influenced by their experiences in their countries of origin and by their experiences here in America. People learn not to seek official help, even if they have been victimized or are in need.

It is our interest to remove myths and barriers in order to integrate Latino Americans into community activities. We strongly believe that their purchase power can help benefit our local economy.

Reasons to Advertise in Somos!

It's non intrusive to the reader, like pop up ads. On contrary, readers usually look to their local publications for deals.

Ads are placed strategically near the content that is of similar topic.

We successfully reach the Latino population by meeting them at places they visit often, writing culturally sensitive articles, and most importantly, speaking their language.

We have positive relationships in the community and have built trust with our customer base.

Digital ads come and go, but a magazine that is left at local clinics or coffee shops, has longer staying power, therefore read by countless readers.
