The employee receives:

employment contract
declaration of employment relationship - job description/job instruction;

Important! Process for unqualified workers:

Before applying, the candidate needs to:

1. Familiarize themselves with the application submission rules for unqualified workers;
2. If an official letter is required for residence in Germany, provide a link from official sources for confirmation.
3. Clarify with the German consulate/embassy whether knowledge of the German language is necessary (requirements for application differ in different countries).

Process for qualified workers:

Before applying, the candidate needs to:

1. Check the diploma for compliance using the German site "Anabin":
 - The candidate independently registers and necessarily submits an application for diploma confirmation (Germany requires qualified workers for legal employment).

- The diploma confirmation process takes 1 to 2 months.
- 2. Familiarize themselves with the application submission rules for qualified workers;
- 3. Clarify with the German consulate/embassy whether knowledge of the German language is necessary (requirements for application differ in different countries).

The candidate receives a package of documents that allows them to obtain a visa for 180 days. After arriving in Germany, they apply for a residence permit for 1 year with the possibility of extension.
