Top stories of the week

➤ Bunker fuel prices advanced for a third consecutive session at most ports on Thursday. Ship & Bunker's G20-VLSFO Index of prices across 20 leading bunkering ports gained $8/mt to $682/mt on Thursday, taking it to the highest level since February 2. The G20-HSFO Index jumped by $4/mt to $453/mt, while the G20-MGO Index declined by $1/mt to $966.50/mt. ICE Brent crude futures lost $0.59/bbl to $84.50/bbl on Thursday. VLSFO prices at the top ports mostly followed a positive trend. At Singapore prices rose by $6.50/mt to $669/mt, at Rotterdam they advanced by $3.50/mt to $597/mt, at Fujairah they climbed by $14.50/mt to $661/mt and at Houston they were unchanged at $630.50/mt. On Friday morning Brent futures were trading up by $2.09/bbl at $86.59/bbl as of 10:00 AM in London. In metric tonne terms that would amount to a $15.74/mt rise in bunker prices. (Ship & Bunker, February 10, 2023)

➤ Malaysia's authorities have arrested a ship near the port of Kemaman carrying diesel without the necessary documentation. The Malaysia Maritime Enforcement Agency arrested the unnamed tanker near Kemaman on the morning of February 4, the organisation said in a social media post. The ship was carrying an estimated 10,000 liters of diesel and failed to submit documents showing the vessel's authorisation for the possession, storage and handling of controlled items, the authority said. The vessel had four crew members between 20 and 36 in age. "Malaysian MMEA takes this seriously and always improves monitoring and patrolling around the country's waters," the organisation said in the post. (Ship & Bunker, February 7, 2023)
