

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Data Center Reviews Appoints Jonathan Martone as Strategic Advisor

Tucson, Arizona| January 19, 2026 - Data Center Reviews, the fast-growing, community-driven authority in digital infrastructure, today announced the appointment of Jonathan Martone as Strategic Advisor, strengthening the organization's technical depth and reinforcing its commitment to people-first, ecosystem-driven infrastructure intelligence.

Martone joins Data Center Reviews at a pivotal stage in the platform's evolution. As the organization expands beyond media into decision-support infrastructure for operators, buyers, and communities, his experience across data centers, interconnection, dark fiber, power generation, and ecosystem development brings critical operational perspective to the advisory bench.

With more than two decades of industry experience, Martone has served in senior operator leadership, technical consulting, and strategic advisory roles focused on designing resilient infrastructure, eliminating single points of failure, and aligning technical strategy with long-term business outcomes. His work spans high-density compute environments, interconnection strategy, cooling and power architecture, and site selection in markets shaped by AI-driven demand.

Currently, Martone serves as a Technical Consultant at EdgeConneX and as a Strategic Advisor to multiple infrastructure and investment organizations, including Overwatch Capital, Tikehau Capital, Ameresco, and CENTRA. Previously, he held senior executive roles at Netrality Data Centers as Vice President of Interconnection and Network Solutions and at Cyxtera Technologies, now Csquare, where he led ecosystem strategy, product engineering, and solutions engineering across a global footprint. Earlier in his career, Martone spent more than a decade with CenturyLink and its predecessor organizations.

“Jonathan brings an operator’s mindset and an ecosystem builder’s perspective that aligns closely with how Data Center Reviews approaches the industry,” said Joe Wells, Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Data Center Reviews. “He understands how power, fiber, interconnection, and community considerations intersect in practice, not just in theory. That insight is essential as we continue building a platform grounded in real-world infrastructure.”

Scott Larsen, President and Chief Operating Officer of Data Center Reviews, added, “Jonathan’s experience complements our focus on transparency and technical clarity. He has spent his career helping organizations navigate complex infrastructure decisions responsibly, and his perspective strengthens our ability to serve the broader ecosystem with credibility.”

As Strategic Advisor, Martone will support Data Center Reviews’ ongoing development of infrastructure intelligence initiatives, market analysis, and ecosystem engagement, contributing technical insight to editorial, platform, and community-facing efforts.

“Data Center Reviews is building something fundamentally different in this industry,” said Martone. “The platform prioritizes open dialogue, technical realism, and people over promotion. That approach is long overdue, and I am glad to contribute to an organization focused on helping the industry make better, more informed decisions.”

About Data Center Reviews

Data Center Reviews is a people-first digital infrastructure media and intelligence platform focused on power, connectivity, risk, location, and customer experience. Through real-world engagement and transparent industry dialogue, Data Center Reviews supports informed decision-making across the global digital infrastructure ecosystem.

For additional information, please contact engagement@datacenterreviews.com