A Prayer for a Right Knowledge of Christ

*Almighty God, whom to know is everlasting life,
grant us perfectly to know Your Son, Jesus Christ, to be the way, the truth, and the life, that following His steps we may steadfastly

The 7th Commandment

So the 7th Commandment is “You shall not steal.” By in large this seems straight forward. Don't take other people's stuff. However, there is a profound truth under this. Our stuff, our “possessions and income” aren't just things, but rather they are gifts to us from God. God gives them to us out of His fatherly goodness and mercy. So there are two aspects that play up here.

First, any desire we have to steal is really a backhanded attack on God. Consider this – if you think you need to steal, you are really saying that God hasn't been a generous enough God with you, that He hasn't given you enough. We often forget how our greed and desire for more is really a terrible and wrong critique of God. God is generous to us, and this check on theft helps to focus us upon this truth.

Second, this reality that all that we have is a gift to us doesn't apply simply to us but also to our neighbors. What they have is a gift to them from God. Thus the Catechism instructs us to help our neighbor to remember and respect what they have received from God as a gift as well. They might not remember or realize that what they have is from God.

This is why we are instructed not only to not steal but also to help our neighbors protect and improve their possessions and income. What they have is good, a gift to them from God, and we ought to help them rightly enjoy and delight in them. This ends up being the heart of the Lutheran approach to business – you don't try to “win” the deal – you try to craft deals where you both benefit, where it is something you can both enjoy and rejoice in together.

So in this new year with it's new business and dealings, remember that you are called to be a blessing to your neighbors and the people you have dealings with. You are an instrument of God meant to be a blessing to them, just as He uses others to be a blessing to you. God bless you this year!

A Pastor Brown's User Guide

As we are at the beginning of a new year, I thought it might be good to refresh everyone on what I will call the “Pastor Brown User Guide”. This year I want you all to be able to get the most out of your Pastor.

One of the things I focus on as a Pastor is making sure that there is ample opportunity for you to be in the Word of God. With services and bible studies on Saturdays and Sundays, as well as morning devotions Monday through Thursday at 8, there are 6 days a week where you can be in the Word with me. Also, the 2nd and 4th Mondays of the month we have a service at Harvest View/Villas which you are more than welcome to attend.

And there's a rhythm to my office work. Monday mornings I try to get most of my office work/writing done. I like to front load my writing, that way if anything goes strange and busy during the week, I'm ready for the weekend services. Tuesday mornings after devotions are set aside for meeting with the other pastors of the Circuit at Greek Study or Winkels (the month's pastors' business meeting and study). Wednesday and Thursday from 8-9 will be devotions and preschool devotions. Friday is my day off (technically Thursday is as well, but whose counting), so I try to keep that clear to scheduled events.

So if you want or would like something from me, simply let me know. I arraign my week so that there is open time in my schedule where I can be flexible and show up when called up. But here also is one of the things that is a quirk of mine – I am very introverted and easily get lost in my thoughts. I think a lot. I ponder the Word of God a lot. I default to being alone and pondering, so I'm not very good at trying to hunt people down for interaction – if you want something of me, please let me know, otherwise I'll probably be running down religious rabbit trails in my head. And don't worry, I will have time for you.

May God grant you growth in your faith this year and your understanding of Jesus' love for you!

- Pastor Brown

New Year? New Hymn Perspective!

It's not a secret that Advent & Christmas is one of the two major "busy" seasons in the church. Weekend services, Midweek services, Children's Christmas programs, all on top of regular work weeks, family holiday planning, can leave church workers AND congregation members overwhelmed, stressed, and not (as) fun to be around. Looking back on my first Advent/Christmas season as a church worker, this was definitely true. Some weeks, it felt like as soon as I got done with one service, rehearsal, or task, I was immediately throwing myself into prep for the next; The next service, the next rehearsal, the next hymn, the next piece of liturgy, the next, the next, the next... You never feel "on top of things", you never feel "in control".

Pastor Brown has preached some sermons this past year about Christians' obsession with feeling "in control". We take comfort knowing that God is actually the One in control and we fear, love, and trust in Him above all things. Upon reflection of my own disregard of this fact as I allowed stress to consume a lot of my time the past month, I began wondering how one might combat this in the future. Constant prayer and personal devotion/Bible study are certainly fine training in our daily lives as Christians. However, one method I found myself subconsciously utilizing throughout Advent didn't take me far from my vocation in the church: Hymns.

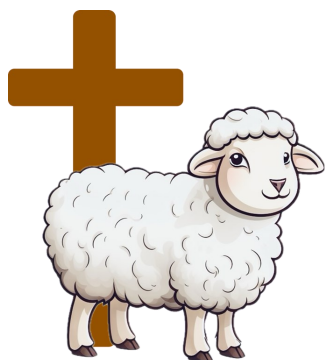

Yes! Hymns! The very pieces of music I stressed out preparing for services every week! How ironic is that? Many times, I found myself at the organ bench, reading or singing the hymns I was working on. Not just because Advent and Christmas hymns are some of the most beautiful in our hymnal, but rather because we tend to gloss over these well-known tunes and go on auto-pilot as we sing them. "Ah yes, 'O Come, O Come, Emmanuel' is a great hymn. I sing it every year in Advent, and hear it a lot on my Christmas CDs and playlists, too. But these Branches, Keys, and Daysprings get a little repetitive, do they not? I mean, it's SEVEN STANZAS!" Well, yes, but take advantage of that repetition to really listen to what the hymn tells or teaches us.

As church seasons come and go and we begin to "ramp-up" for the next busy seasons of Lent & Easter, I'm going to make sure I keep getting lost in the very hymns I prepare for services. By separating the tune and text and focusing on the words of the hymn writers, we may find our stress a little more bearable, as we keep our lives fixed on the Cross, with Christ always at the center.

A Musical Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to you all!

Caleb Dehning

Little Lambs Preschool

We had a great December! We completed all our projects, and the kids greatly enjoyed the book exchange and Christmas parties. Thank you to Deb Weerts and Ruth Kruse for volunteering to help with refreshments at the preschool Christmas program! Yes, it is a busy time of year, but it is also a special one. The birth of our Savior is worthy of celebration!

After a nice break, it is a joy to get back to our normal routine. However, sometimes it is necessary to deviate from that routine in the name of a good cause. If everything works out with scheduling and permissions, we expect to be hosting Herscher High School's Child Development class this year! Ms. Morgan's students have visited in years past and were eagerly asking if it was a possibility this year; it seems text books about children hold decidedly less allure than actual children. That does not mean they do not have to do the work, of course. They will be visiting and working with both classes so they can see just how different the age groups are in terms of ability and development. Each high schooler will craft a lesson of their own for the preschoolers, which they must submit in advance and design to supplement our existing curriculum. It is surprisingly tough to make lessons that are engaging and not too complicated to complete within a limited time frame. When the preschoolers do complete them, do the lessons actually achieve their stated objective? Are the kids able to gain and/or apply knowledge in a way that that is suitable for their young brains? Is the material stretching their minds or bodies, but gently? As anyone who has had to apply theory to practice knows, it is rarely as simple as it seems at the outset. We hope the high schoolers find the experience enriching and fascinating.

January is a new year in more ways than one. We are always growing, changing, and adapting, as students and teachers and children of God. Changing the calendar lets us mentally turn a page: our past is committed to memories we can go back and visit any time, while our present is freed to grow, change, and adapt with us. When the church calendar starts anew in December, we are reminded to be confident of God's guiding hand and our salvation in Christ. This reassurance is the foundation of our new year.

Wishing everyone a blessed new year,

Mrs. Brown

Treasurer's Report

Too Funny!

LCMS Stewardship Ministry – lcms.org/stewardship Newsletter article – January 2026

“And he who was seated on the throne said, ‘Behold, I am making all things new. Also, He said, ‘Write this down, for these words are trustworthy and true’ (Revelation 21:5).

In January there is a great deal of “new” talk. Parties are held to ring in the “new” year. “New” year’s resolutions are made to set a “new” course of life in the “new” year. There is date forgetfulness as checks and other forms are filled out without using the “new” year on the dateline.

We use all this “new” talk because there is very often so much wrong with the old in us. We think back to the “new” resolutions from the previous year that only lasted a few weeks. That “new” person did not shed any pounds and instead, picked up a few. The “new” habits of going to the gym were soon replaced by even more time on the couch binging on Netflix. The “new” person who does not lose their temper, use sarcasm as a lethal weapon and spend more money than necessary, but who worships, prays and serves the Lord and the neighbor, never seemed to stick around. We need “new” talk because the Old Adam is alive and well within every one of us.

But this promise of “new” is a matter of stewardship. It is the Lord Himself who makes the promise of all things being new. These words recorded by St. John are not pious wishes or hopeless promises. They do what they say. YOU, that one baptized into Jesus’ death and resurrection, are NEW! These words are indeed trustworthy and true. This “new” comes to you in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. It comes free of charge, even without our prayer.

This stewardship of “new” is not a vague, someday kind of stewardship either. You are NEW now! Forgiven. Reborn from above. The old is gone, nailed to Calvary’s cross and buried and rotting in a tomb that was only borrowed by Jesus for His resurrection rest. The Gospel is what makes us NEW every morning. Remembering your baptism, you are new. Confessing your sins and receiving absolution makes you new. Hearing the Gospel filling your ears makes you new. Feasting on Christ’s body and blood in the Holy Supper makes you new.

These mercies, totally undeserved as they are, are entrusted to us to steward TODAY even as we long for the Last Day. But we know how often we fail in this stewardship. We hoard God’s creation as if it belongs to us. We belittle and devalue our neighbor because they look or sound or act in a way that we do not like. We seek to make the Holy Word of God softer and more palatable for those, or even ourselves, who refuse to confess sin as sin and repent. We value our comfort over truth, our reputation over faithfulness and our treasure over making sure that people get to hear of the Jesus who has done so much for the world and us.

We, as stewards of the Gospel, need to be made new every day. This is exactly what the Lord does. We failed in stewardship of the Gospel last year, so He gives us a new year. We failed in stewardship of the Gospel yesterday, and He gives us a new day. We failed in stewardship of the Gospel in the last few minutes, and yet in mercy our newness comes with each tick of the clock! Because that is how the Lord works.

As we see this working of all new things in us, it then calls us to be stewards of this newness to the world. This starts right in our own homes. It radiates out to our neighbors. It beams out from our congregations. This newness is teamed at the circuit, district and Synod levels all to shine the newness of the Gospel to those who need it.

Your new talk starts in the newness of the Gospel. Steward this treasure in this new year and this new day. It starts with a new you in Jesus. This is indeed trustworthy and true.
