

Probability and miscalculations within the atmosphere of the Earth

- An introduction

Illustration (AI generated): Does this AI favours left or right / looks or brains?

Achievable goal -> synchronize and/or align established governmental systems with human development & thereby reduce mental illness for a healthier development in every existing nation

As mentioned, most humans are fear driven. By this meaning that many of the choices you will make, either for yourself or for others, are in the long term part of your survival related calculations. Calculations done not with numbers, but solely with personal experience and learning abilities. Such as the probability of you reading this.

An example: 'The Elite' will not necessarily have in mind that they make specific choices which affect you as an individual directly. But since we are fear driven you may in many situations think negatively about changes done.

With that example in mind, you can think that those who are in such a position basically have lost control over how to regulate the 'masses', for lack of better terms. Because, they basically have the power and influence to do something about it which will benefit a predictable globalization for the future but they can not due to adaptation.

Question one: You have responsibility for others, and maybe also a whole nation. Will your focus be on strangers?

Question two: You have responsibility over massive wealth. Will your focus be materialistic driven?

Our current living generations are now experiencing what we call a shift in mindsets. And certain mindsets do not have the ability to adapt. It can be age related or other cognitive illnesses, such as greed or fame on behalf of others.

If we are to achieve a goal of something close to a form of stabilized global society, human beings need to change. And the two ways of changing your way of thinking is either by a personal/spiritual experience or societal change.

Question three: Who can make a societal change and in which scale of capabilities to do so, will do so?

*A question here and a question there might be a start for those of a genuine interest when it comes to peace
'The Elite' does not control anything, they rather regulate what actually is adjustable*

