

How to destroy /ruin a country

- Ask Jonas Gahr Støre, PM of Norway

Illustration: Isn't it great to have a leader that will never tell you the truth, and than on f*** your nation up

In the 20s, we have all come to a point where future generations basically will change the world. No matter how old or f***** up you are in your own belief system, you do not know the best for the younger generations. This is due to exponential growth, and many leaders, not all & everyone, have issues trying to adapt to an updated society.

As the headline speaks, here is a profound way of how to not do it - Think of your own nation (not a possible future job within the EU after your term) and of course future generations. For many countries and great world leaders, this is basically a ground pillar of how to run a nation. Norway, unfortunately, has a very bad leadership and also judges who are not capable of critical thinking. This might be due to their judicial education where the norm is to lie and mainly f*** people over as a result of a good paycheck. Understandable since Norwegians might be considered as the most lazy and inefficient people we have on this planet. This is due to the oil-fund.

So, how is your society getting along with globalization is the question or the task that should be grasped.

A question: 'Jacqueline' works at a kindergarten named Sandøya Naturbarnehage (the equivalent to Epstein Island) and she contributes to a situation for one of the children to not be involved or interact with the father of the child because he reacts on sexual abuse. The father has done nothing wrong. She also works at the grocery store 'Kiwi Stathelle', where she smiles at her parent when shopping. Is this a result of the system rules or schizophrenia?

Question two: If the prime minister answers in a manner that you are not informed of, is it a good leader?

Here is the key for how to destroy your nation accordingly to four years of horrible leadership in Norway:

- Send all of the budgeted economic assets anywhere else than within your own nation
- Speak lies and only lies
- Pretend that you are a good leader because you just want the title

*If you as a world leader want to destroy your own nation within one or two decades, start with the newborns. F***** jokes of people with 'power'. Your ego will kill the ones you are supposed to lead.*
