

Quantum Entanglement & Fourier

In courtesy of every nation besides Norway, due to the Norwegian judicial system suppressing both corruption and child predators. When the people named on this list have either passed away or been deported the copyright 2026, It all comes to energy Ltd. will open up for the Norwegian government or people/companies within Norway's land borders for usage. Norway as a nation might face severe consequences in 2029, otherwise.

If quantum entanglement resembles, or describes, subatomic particles sharing information and the Fourier transform tries to explain how certain wave functions transfer 'energy' into particle behaviour and vice versa:

- Time itself is not manifested in anything. Only in mathematical graphical illustrations
- To convert wave functions into 2D literally tells us that we are all underestimating power positions
- Amplitude and λ are two way different experiences for the conscious mind to comprehend

If Lambda operates / behaves in a manner that it will create something that you might have the opportunity to either experience or understand / relate to, it will always exist with holographic matter. And hence also operate within the spectrum of every wavefunction you can possibly imagine. Everything is resonating to vibrate at all, in the cosmos.

If there were one single frequency nothing would exist due to singularity.

Question: There are x amount of numbers and x amount of possibilities. Why do you care about the future outcome?

If something can share, and gather, some form of information about 'particle' behaviour, there must be a fundamental force in charge. This force seems to be a frequency and λ itself, at a universal cosmological state will always behave in superposition due to scientifically approved forces known. But again, the Alena tensor tells us that no force exists, meaning that either everything is a force or not. It can be similar to being deaf, dead or just a low conscious being like every f Norwegian person working for and under restrictions from a government.

Question two: How many types of vibrations do you need to behave as a being?

An example: If you have a low consciousness level, you will not care.

If we would be under some form of threat from other beings, iacte Ltd. will either join them or stop them
