

Thee mighty pen

- Conflict related document

Question one: You have one sheet of paper and one pen. Your task is set to enlighten brothers and sisters into one single path. What would you write/draw and would it be possible regarding different cultures all around the Earth?

People are people. Who to support or take side with depends basically on either morals and values, or influence by someone you like or trust. Or a combination. When it comes to wars, the global view is more of a media driven direction. If you do your research as a result of your own scepticism to what you are being fed with of either false or correct information, you will acknowledge that there are plenty of information that you will most likely never manage to get hold on because of:

- Lobbyism
- Confidentiality
- Global economics

In every conflict there will be history that you know nothing about. And as a Norwegian government official, such as an incompetent judge or his so-called 'expert' (on the judge's right side), many have the mentality of feeling important in our society. How important they actually are as a result of making the society worse, might trigger thought on both democracy, capitalism and human psychology as a result of the different systems shaping humans. A major change in not only our local society, but also our global society, can be only a pen away. It could be a pen used for a declaration or a signature implementing prosperity for that matter. It is actually so simple

So, do not forget that the actual profit of your physical writings will both improve your mind/body relation and it will make you remember better. Because you did it yourself. Learning by doing (writing) in other words.

Example: If Russia continues to be framed as a hostile nation, it is only a result of wanted economic growth.

Question two: Why is it that EU-friendly nations are sending negotiators who are 'only' informed about economics?

Question three: Why do you care more about the Ukraine-Russia conflict these days rather than any other conflict or war on Earth happening at this specific timeline? Is it exposed information towards you? And why are you being exposed to exactly that type of information?

An experiment: Let's say that you are considered as a so-called 'expert' psychologist used by the Norwegian judicial system. Your name could be either Per Kaald or Hans Moen. Or any other on the 'holy list' of power positions in an already lost nation (due to ignorance or incompetence) who hasn't understood that society changes with time. Let's put these two people into ongoing peace negotiations (Russia-Ukraine) since they know so much about how to 'solve' conflicts. Iacte's guess of outcome: They would be considered as imbeciles not only by the panel, but also by civilians involved. The experiment will contribute to making a clear point of how to not do it for wanted prosperity.

Question four: Do you care more about ego-related conflicts than occurring wars on Earth?

Russia will win with or without conquered areas, and goodbye to the EU
