

Consciousness / CQ (Consciousness quotient)

Let's say that Earth is in a place where the amount of consciousness is set. It is being divided by beings as of the energy exposed to our planet. The frequency we are able to resonate with and there on creating our reality, is split into the Consciousness Quotient. (CQ), ( Law of One). To be conscious means to understand the surroundings.

The conscious mind is affected by the surroundings and the environment. If we are able to rise, we need a different environment. This is because of epigenetics, and what actually triggers your behavior. Look at this, you will do that.

It can slightly differ in these categories (2023)

- Ubit (Universal bit) - a thought
- Biomimicry - Adaption level
- Surroundings - Affecting behavior

Into depth:

- 1: How many thoughts do you have?
- 2: How do you adapt and use your surroundings?
- 3: How do you use your Ubits?

If a being is able to understand another being and their reality, it will create a self where the understanding of possible realities exists. Resulting in a higher consciousness level. Consciousness is an oscillating source.

To think bigger than yourself requires an understanding of the self. Here is an example: Are you creating something for the people/beings, or are you creating something for the ego centric system and what it provides you with assets? It sounds preaching and spiritual, but it really is not. It is cosmic universal. We can only take care of our nearests. Consciousness itself might be seen as portions being spread out. The nearest conscious relation to yourself, might give you the greater answer. But only if you agree, and understand the other person's reality point of view. This is, again, part of the CQ. There will be an update on the subject regarding new published documents.

This document is shared by It All Comes To Energy

