

The psychology of people with little power, either believing or wanting to have more

Your ego drives you into the future. What gives you pleasure? And who are you seeking pleasure from? Money is often related to pleasure, and it can be, and be not. So if the pleasure you are seeking is economic-related, it is ego-related.

This growth of the human mind sets a standard. But the system creates it.

Your nervous system will give you information on how to relate. How to handle everyday life situations. The touch is wholly, and as a man you can not touch a woman whatsoever without being a possible harassment person. A fucking joke when it comes to offense. Often being misused by women trying to achieve their own goals. And put their own ego at a higher realm than they already are. Women seem to be so emotionally regulated that logical thinking does not always exist. You do not want a person like that with power over a population.

A woman also often thinks that a man is gay, because he is not interested. This is again a great example of the survival mode of the woman, their ego, resulting in apathy.

Feelings have a tendency to create self-focus and center the ego centric part of the self towards the being. And without a higher self acknowledgment, you seem apathetic. By this meaning; The woman is more related to feelings (because of senses, reproduction and survival) so they actually are closer to a psychopath from birth, than a man. As part of evolution regarding our national systems, built over several hundreds of years.
