

The self:

Illustration: What differs?

The self is all about understanding who we are and why we are here on Earth.

Women, for example, lack total understanding of most things outside their own control. With this feature as a woman you will of course get complications with a man or in a romantic relationship.

There are two genders. And there will always be. If you care about the future, you will understand.

The man:

I can figure it out, I want peace, I can tolerate most things, and help others before myself.

The woman:

If it is not tolerable I will become a horror b**** trying to ruin your life (if romantic feelings are involved).

You live in the now as a result of survival for future generations. Highly needed for survival of the human race.

This is quantum subconscious thoughts / behavior.

The ancient Greeks had a name for different types of love. It is about the family you love, the tree in your garden, something about the color etc. This is still very central in today's human psychology, if you go into the subject.

Let's say you lose your ego (which is neurologically easier for a man vs a woman): It is no longer about survival.

Question: Why are most spiritual and religious leaders (at top level) men?

The self, or the ego as it is called as a result of a lower conscious level, will make choices solely for you. And if you lose the self and make choices for other human beings the result will in every way give you either learning or experience worth probably a lot later on in life. It is called spirituality or religion. Since the word religion is used it can be explained further: the two of them are way different. Spiritualism is one thing. You can be religious without being connected to our universe. This is then referred to as closed mind believers.

An example: I have learned that this is the way it is, and that is the truth (or what I believe) regardless of any other points of view -> Highly religious, not spiritual

Answer for the question: Men will always think about other people at a higher level than women. Survival.

Understanding when it comes to difference and diversity is a clear sign of potentially highly spiritual beings.
