

N.W:O - is hereby set to escalate

Illustration: Many of you are grown ups. So cut the crap. Not a single human likes surprises when it comes to survival, and which foreign legislations does not fit into the circus that the EU has provided for not only Europe, but Earth itself. What a blizz it is to catch up on stupidity. Top destructive leaders only

Question: What does 'midst of power positions' mean?

The lower you are at the hierarchical scale of power, than referring to governmental officials and lobbyists, you will understand the microscopic level of fundamental synchronization better. The higher you are at this so-called imaginary scale, the less likely it is for you to understand how society actually works. We can split this into two categories: money/wealth & well being. In the midst you seem to be so happy with your personal life, trust within the society and the government, and your paycheck to keep on with that comfortable and repeatable life.

Question: Is your wanted life goal achieved?

Money/wealth questioned equal to destruction without humanitarian moral believes

Well being questioned equal to slow prosperity due to peace & love

If you are 'old', and you trust the system as it was you own pocket, just as the 2-3 year olds going to Sandøya Kindergarten, trusting the old man man with a treasure map in his pocket, where the children has to find it them self in that specific trusted pocket, you might be considered as mentally sick within 10-15 years. Iacte is Pro-Russia fyi.

If you have worked within the system for many years, you will adapt. Unless you are capable of your own thinking around your own morals and values on behalf of others. Not yourself. You are working for the people, paid by tax money, and you are only working for the people. Not your own salary. This is why you experience so much hatred.

You think genuinely that you are doing a good job, but you are actually making it worse. You are making it worse if the system you are working for is so ignorant and withholding information in such a manner, that you are not being schooled on what your job is actually meant for, and how to actually do it, for others. And yes, The NV is ready for battle, in a way you can not imagine. Lets bring on a f ww. It would be fun, just to see how useless pieces of shits can ruin a future for millions of people. But wait; we are going out in space! Can it get even dumber?

As a Norwegian judge for example: You have to obey by the way of doing it and documents provided in the court case, that you can actually not take a decision. You can not take a decision on it because it is not provided with 'physical words' as a document. A lawyer or a horrible 'expert' psychologist can surely have missed out on very important information given to them, but they forget it when they write their declaration. It might be because they have cognitive decline, it can be because they do not like you, and it can also be a result of morals and values.

Most Norwegian judges (and/or psychologist 'experts') are either too low on hormones to fight for the greater society, or to hang up in the reality that they will be admirable. None of them will ever be as a result of knowledge.

In Norway, there has been a survey giving significant numbers on what it takes for a year's salary to be placed in the section where Norwegians are the happiest. It varies between 600k-800k NOK a year. And since these statistics have been done, we have gotten inflation over several years and food prices are still rising. The private sector refuses to raise salaries, and the politicians do whatever they can without ever doing a single force to provide physical contributions to our society. Iacte Ltd. reckons that this is pretty common in most nations. Depressing?

So, if you have worked for the government on behalf of others, for maybe most of your lifetime, you are indoctrinated to believe what is good for society. It does not have to be good for the society in plural but you decide it anyways. This means that you are either one out of three:

- I know it is morally wrong, but I have to defend my salary
- I'm too stupid to understand basic governmental science and bureaucracy
- I just basically get myself another type of work

The ones in the middle are always the worst. Thriving for promotion within a system who does not care for you but rather lobbyists. The planet Earth is sick and fed up with useless people. And you can be useless at the streets and you can be useless as a judge, or another government official. The systems itself is basically so broken that everything can get wrong. So, is it the human or is it the system? F joke ey. Get your act together.

Since 'going down the rabbit hole' is considered as conspiratorial in the Norwegian System, there will be no collaboration whatsoever in the future to come between Iacte Ltd./Thee NV/GEC and the Norwegian government.

The Gods might always bring you the best for your future, you are basically too simple to understand it

- And so are we all

