

How time operates in our universe (and maybe also other universes...)

This document is based on the theory of time, giving: $((C/4 \pi r) \times \text{Planck constant}) / (0.01 \text{ up to } 51.61)$

It results in this:

- What the future behold is uncertain. Higher valued actions already set are prioritized by other realms.
- What has happened in the past is set, and there is a reason for only highly moraled beings to access it.

Needed guidelines:

An example: You have the ability to travel into the future but what you will see exactly, will most likely not happen.

Resulting in this statement: The future will give you different results at every given moment.

To actually travel in time to explore timelines, there is a need for a crystal. Crystals are the simplest form of the bridge between the conscious and the mechanical structure / apparatus.

This planet is a circus regarding actions from consciousness - as a result of the systems.
