"This installation could well be truly magnificent when activated by the energy of the huge Tate Modern crowds"

The London Evening Standard

The Hyundai Commission 2017, SUPERFLEX: One Two Three Swing!

09 Nov 17

The Hyundai Commission 2017, SUPERFLEX: One Two Three Swing! was recently unveiled at Tate Modern in London, and has received warm reviews from art critics.

One Two Three Swing! is a large-scale interactive installation by Danish art collective SUPERFLEX, and the first Turbine Hall commission to extend beyond the gallery walls. It features an orange line connecting dozens of swings which weaves through the Hall, extending to outside of the museum. The theme of the show is to encourage collaboration in a time of social apathy, as each swing contains three seats and requires participants to work together.

One Two Three Swing! is the third annual Hyundai Commission to feature in the Tate Modern's Turbine Hall as part of the partnership between Tate and Hyundai Motor.

Hyundai Motor conquers the KONA 10 volcano challenge

09 Nov 17

The task: to reach the summit of 10 of the UK and Ireland's most famous volcanic landscapes in less than 72 hours. Armed with Hyundai's All-New Kona SUV, one bold adventurer did precisely that.

Try to imagine the toughest driving challenge in Europe, and you'll be hard pressed to think of anything more epic than reaching the summit of the UK and Ireland's 10 most famous volcanic landscapes in under 72 hours. As almost impossible as it sounds, this challenge - dubbed the 'KONA 10' - has now been conquered by Hyundai Motor and adventurer Sophie Radcliffe.

With the help of the All-New Kona, Hyundai's compact SUV, Radcliffe battled through snow and 50mph winds to climb elevations of over 12,000ft and complete the adventure of a lifetime, as well as raise money for the Stand Up To Cancer charity. Hyundai worked with historian Dr Michael Scott to uncover the secrets behind some of the UK and Ireland's volcanic landscapes, from Snowdon in North Wales to the Cullin Ridge on the Isle of Skye, mapping an ambitious route that pushed the endurance boundaries of both the car and the athlete.

Radcliffe drove as far as possible at each location, taking on routes that are normally not accessible to the public and, when the car could go no further, she set out on foot - running, walking, climbing or cycling to the summit.
