HAYESCREATES

ARE TAKING YOU "WAY, WAY BACK MANY CENTURIES AGO"!

To celebrate the launch of HayesCreates, we have joined forces across the subjects to launch the first major Hayes production since 2004 where auditions were open to every year group in the school.

Under the direction of Mr Gunning and Miss Werry, with Mrs Jefferies choreographing and Ms James in charge of set design, Joseph and the Technicolour Dreamcoat will be a truly cross-arts collaboration, with a cast of over 50 students taking to the stage.

Following two sets of highly competitive and talent-packed auditions we have assembled a brilliant ensemble from across the Key Stages, with the company now in the midst of singing and dancing rehearsals, before blocking and acting commences after half-term. Insider knowledge has already told us to expect a Joseph with a difference; a production designed to both entertain and deliver a strong social message. Knowing Mr Gunning's tendency to subvert the traditional layout of the hall, we can almost certainly expect some expansive and innovative staging as well! We will feature regular updates from rehearsals in future newsletters.

Andrew Lloyd-Webber and Tim Rice's Joseph and the Technicolour Dreamcoat will run from March 15th to 18th. Times and ticket details TBA.
