

EXACTAWEATHER 🌩️

No more public posts explained honestly + what this means for the future...

In the future, we (myself/exacta) will refuse to be literally restricted/penalised and/or used on social media for forecasting upcoming and past weather events correctly that were not even on the radar of others and which we repeatedly forecast for exact dates before anyone else and which were obviously copied later or soon after by other pages to take all the credit upon development (as always) and who have forecast absolutely NOTHING on their own behalf.

To be brutally frank, I also don't need the s that social media and FB bring to those who forecast the weather correctly and those who DON'T and for someone like myself with a number of ongoing and quite serious health issues, such as chronic Crohn's disease and chronic prostatitis (the two are unfortunately linked, and I don't need the extra stress).

As a prime example and to prove this a little further, all of those who earlier ridiculed and even abused us in the comments on our hot summer indicators from February below (3-6 months ahead of the summer as a whole) must be feeling a bit red-faced and not just from the heat of the RECORD-BREAKING summer

However, this has also been on the cards for a while as a preventative measure against the obvious Charlatan pages and forecasters of the game and also certain media outlets, but I also felt I had a bit to prove publicly on my part against them and for which I have completed on my part conclusively and repeatedly throughout the whole of this year and summer and even beyond, but particularly with the exact dates for several and EVERY heat event of this year (spring and summer) and always ahead of conventional meteorology and TV forecasts (what can't speak and is digitally-dated, can't lie, and please feel free to check for yourself and this year as a whole in our archived posts below).

Sincere apologies are offered and an enormous thank you to all those who have followed and continuously supported us over the years on social media (15 years) and most of whom are already members of our services anyway.

Just to clearly clarify that we will ONLY be posting on social media to offer proof of a forecast nearer time or upon completion of upcoming big weather events (still being ahead of all the others much more often than not), but anything that disadvantages us with other copying weather pages or certain thieving media companies will only be available via our advanced services privately from now on.
