

Travel

Top 10 reasons why travel advisors are even more valuable in today's travel industry...

Knowledge – Travel Advisors have spent the last year learning and becoming experts on the changing landscape of travel. Their value has increased dramatically during this last year.

Peace of Mind – Travel Advisors will guide you with the right travel insurance to keep safe while on the road. They also provide backup should something happen while on a trip.

Best Prices – Clients will benefit by getting the best value for their money from an industry expert who can offer the best recommendations!

Exclusive Offers – Only advisors are going to be in the know with extra special offers that are not available consumer direct.

Travel Expertise – Travel Advisors travel frequently themselves and offer tailored expertise on destinations, cruises and hotels.

Time Savings – Do you know it can take a minimum of 5 hours (Individual travel), in the case of group travel planning it can take weeks to plan a vacation? Travel advisors know who to contact to get the job done, saving a client hours of frustration from being put on hold or trying to figure out what COVID protocols are.

Multiple Options – Travel Advisors make sure each piece in their client's trip puzzle fits their specific needs. This truly is a service industry and a good travel advisor provides all the options that are the best fit for their clients.

Industry Insiders – Travel Advisors are the first to know about new resorts or new itineraries for all types of travel. They help their clients with the latest and greatest.

Personalized Suggestions – Once a travel advisor gets to know their clients, they provide inside tips and recommendations for a vacation that is unforgettable!

Money Saving – the biggest myth is that using a travel agent costs more money. The truth is they can save you money and give you more value.

"Traveling is learning"

~African Proverb|