

Trainee Travel Awards

These awards are for individuals who are still in training, namely undergraduate or graduate students and postdoctoral fellows (including clinical fellows). Documentation of training status is required in the form of a letter from the applicant's supervisor. The applicant must be the first author and presenter of the abstract. Awards will be based on the scientific merit of the abstract submitted. Winners will present their work as either a poster or an oral communication. We anticipate that a maximum of 10 Trainee Travel awards of approximately $500 each will be available.

Young Investigator Award

This award is targeted at junior faculty conducting either basic or clinical research on vitamin D. Candidates must be within 5 years of their first independent faculty appointment and must be the first or senior author on the submitted abstract which describes work conducted in their own lab. To be considered for the YI award, applicants must submit a detailed CV and a letter of support from their Department Chair along with the abstract. The letter of support should detail the qualities and promise of the applicant for an academic career. Selection will be based on CV, support letter and scientific merit of the abstract. It is anticipated that the winner will present their work as a promoted oral communication or a plenary poster.
