HISTORY OF FAIRY FEST

BRIGHT AND GREEN

Once upon a time, in the magical land of Humboldt, there was a special day each year in June when all the magical beings from the forest and coast would gather. Fairies with glittering wings, curious goblins, and wise old wizards would join their forces to create a realm of peace and happiness. Their spells were so powerful that anyone who visited couldn't help but be enchanted by the fairies and intrigued by the goblins, who showered visitors with gifts of art and theatre.

Children and adults alike would laugh and play, marveling at the wondrous sights and sounds. The air was filled with the sweet scent of flowers and the joyful melodies of magical music. But amidst all this joy, there was a little problem that needed fixing.

In the midst of all the magic, there was one thing that wasn't quite so enchanting. You see, with so many magical beings and visitors, there was a lot of trash. And without anyone to monitor the trash stations and sort the waste, the beautiful festival started to lose a bit of its sparkle.

Fairy Fest had trash, recycling, and compost bins, but no one seemed to know which items went where. Fairies would accidentally toss their compostable flower petals into the recycling, and goblins would mix up their shiny candy wrappers with the compost. The festival grounds became cluttered, and the magical beings were saddened by the mess.

Just when it seemed like the magic of Fairy Fest might be overshadowed by the trashy trouble, a group of heroes arrived: the Bright and Green Team! This team was dedicated to reducing waste and making Fairy Fest the cleanest, greenest festival ever.

The Bright and Green Team set up special stations and called themselves the "Trash Talkers." Wearing bright green capes and friendly smiles, they helped everyone sort their waste. Thanks to their efforts, the festival grounds became clean and sparkly again. The fairies, goblins, and visitors learned to sort trash, recycling, and compost correctly, making the magic of Fairy Fest shine brighter than ever.
