

A man in a plaid shirt and a young girl in a patterned shirt are smiling next to a brown and white cow in a barn. The cow is eating hay from a trough. Another cow is visible in the background behind a metal fence. The barn has large windows and a high ceiling.

I can't imagine why this matters even the tiniest bit.

Yeah it's definitely one of those meaningless, purely symbolic, wastes of government time and effort that everyone can get behind.

I'm getting one for my new fluorescent green Lamborghini! I can promote God, Utah, and fine Italian craftsmanship just by evading the smokies while I drive 100 in the right lane between Salt Lake and Provo! I'll get more baptisms than I did on my mission!

 Mike Mower
Gosh Mark, do you also dislike the flag, the pledge, and the singing of the National Anthem before every ballgame? Those are also symbolic, we all get behind them, and I think they are incredibly important.
