SHUSH BOOKS

Shush Books is the main imprint of Shaherazad Shelves. We launched it after seeing Muslim viewpoints and cultural heritage filtered for commercial consumption, skewing what it means to look and be Muslim.

As Islam has one of the most diverse adherent groups in the world, comprising nearly two billion people and tens of millions who can read and write English, the purpose of Shush Books is to enrich the literary market with works of fiction, nonfiction, and poetry by Muslims. We are strong believers that a Muslim does not have to sacrifice his or her faith to be successful or influential. Not only will we embrace Muslim writers, but we will also empower their voices and range of religiosity.

A COUNTRY OF BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE

SAMIHA HOQUE, HAMDA MAHABOOB

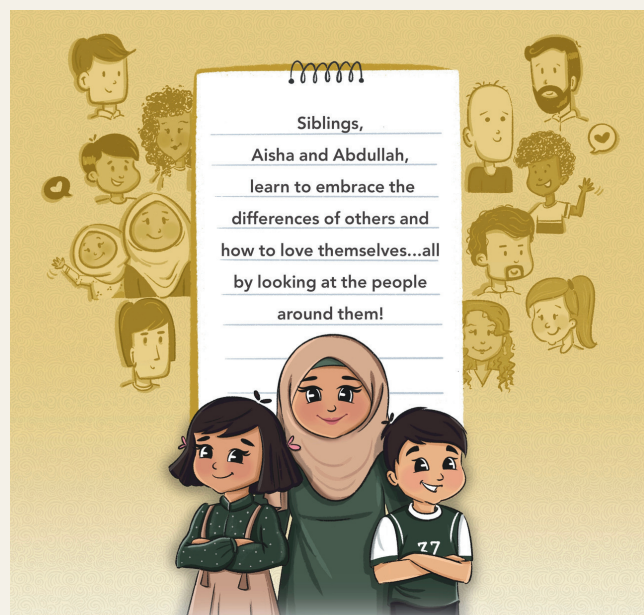

A Country of Beautiful People is a fun, light read for children to learn the concepts of self-love and acceptance of others.

With the setting of a bus stop, our children protagonists, Aisha and Abdullah, are given an opportunity by their mother to observe and love the people they see, no matter what they look like or how they were born.

Yusuf and Yusra's Holiday Dilemma Series consists of three books that talk about Halloween, Christmas, and Eid.

With black and white illustrations sprinkled in, each book is written in plain language and is the perfect read for children who are learning to read on their own, read-alouds, or read-alongs.

Each book is set during a holiday period as siblings Yusuf and Yusra learn different faiths. Each book has strong social learning skills attached to it: friendship, honesty, and coexistence with people of other faiths without any shaming.

read this for a smile

— Sudha Subramanian, author

A Little Bit of Love is an adult romance novel that hopeless romantic adults would devour. Categorized as a sweet romance, this novel is also ideal for teenagers.

From familial expectations to finding yourself, and falling in love, this novel will make you a believer in heart-stopping romance.

Themes of autonomy, personal growth, Indian culture, and making tough decisions make this novel more addictive than the average romance book.

HOME IS A SILHOUETTE

KATARU YAHYA

Home Is a Silhouette is a domestic thriller with aspects of romance, social commentary, and sisterhood weaved masterfully between multiple POVs.

The core of the novel is between two young adult women, and touches gently on aspects not many explore, including adoption, mental illness, generational trauma, and sexual abuse.

At a solid 50k words, this book is perfect for book clubs, guided readings for college students, and teenagers grasping the concept of adulthood or are hungry for literature that does just about everything.

MUSAFIR: A RECOLLECTION OF TRAVEL

IMAN ZAYNAB BAJWA

*I feel the sea
beneath my skin.
Vast and angry,
depthless and ferocious.
It spares none, not even my wrecked soul, from the viciousness it holds.
Waves crashing, it
destroys all that it seeks.*

Musafir: A Recollection of Travel is a photography book that explores human emotion through nature.

From the canyons of the United States to the islands of Saudi Arabia, we read poignant poetry and prose that evokes the soul.
