

HELEN PAUL

The poster has a dark, moody aesthetic with a blue and black color palette. In the center, a woman with brown hair and a black lace dress looks directly at the viewer. Behind her, a man and a woman are silhouetted against a bright light coming from a doorway. They are both wearing heavy metal chains around their necks and wrists, which are connected to each other. The background is a textured blue with many sharp, translucent shards of broken glass floating around. The title 'FORCED' is written in large, ornate, metallic letters, and 'NUPTIAL' is in a simpler, bold font below it. The bottom of the poster is filled with soft, white clouds.

A Peek Inside

Forced Nuptial is a didactic fictional prose (young adult romance) written in the first person central narrative point of view. The protagonist contracted a marriage with the love of her life whom she knew was impotent.

All attempts by her and her mother to procure healing for her would-be-husband proved abortive. After the wedding, he made her take some tough decisions that resulted in the birthing of two children outside of marriage. Then came his relocation to another state some years into the marriage; then, a solution came. Would he take it or not? What were the resultant occurrences? You will need to read the piece to find out.
