That's exactly how a breach happens, 3rd parties having access to all of it granted by the owner.

This is exactly how TIAA Bank was breached earlier this year, a third party working for TIAA and TIAA granting them admin access to load into their ERP (in addition to without any SSO provisioning):

It is not your place to submit breach information especially since they are working for us it is not a breach.

I know its my 4th day, but please we cannot provision f., a sysadmin account for Maderia access to our servers. We can workaround this so that Maderia can still get system stats without having a master key to our server and pii data as you know.

I submitted a breach notice with hhs.gov so that we protect Nuvem.

I'm on my way to the office as I have been taking the 7:15am DB calls which I am going to stop taking so I can be at the office before 10am as requested. Hopefully 9:30am as long as the S1 buses are running. The LIRR train is perfect.

Respectfully,
