Introduction

Founded on the understanding that economic insecurity is often the result of interlaced issues, the Beaverton Resource Center offers a central hub for individuals and families living in the Beaverton area to more easily find help. With a broad range of social service partners in one place, we empower those dealing with hunger, homelessness, and poverty to create stability for a better tomorrow.

About this BRC Community Resource Guide:

- A tool for those working with individuals and families in the Beaverton and Washington County Area;
- Offers information about commonly needed services and how to access them;
- Designed to be easily printed or electronically shared as needed;
- Not comprehensive and always growing - please contact us to add services to this list.

Washington County Family Development:

- Home Visiting Support We know that families and communities thrive when people are connected and able to support one another. Our intensive home visiting support programs connect families in need with trained Family Advocates. Family Advocates meet with families in their home to help them define goals, learn new skills and connect to people and resources in the community. The support of a Family Advocate provides the opportunity for families to thrive long after they have received assistance from Community Action.

- Healthy Families. A nationally recognized program that promotes child well-being through parenting support and skill development. Specially trained advocates work with expecting families or parents of newborns in their homes for the first three years of their child's life. Participation in the program is voluntary. To help parents get off to a strong start, Family Advocates can begin working with a family as soon as they know they are expecting. Prenatal services include help communicating with prenatal care providers and preparing for childbirth and parenthood. Advocates also connect families to WIC and other supportive community programs. Healthy Families is especially helpful for parents who want to develop the skills and knowledge to provide their children with the best possible parenting. Parents learn how to create a nurturing environment for their children using positive parenting techniques. They are provided with the skills to build their support network using information about community resources with an emphasis on health and well-being. To apply through Help Me Grow, visit <https://caowash.org/programs/early-childhood-development/ec-app.html>
- Strengthening, Preserving and Reunifying Families. In partnership with the Department of Human Services, Family Advocates provide support and resources to strengthen and reunify families. When a lack of safe and affordable housing is the only barrier keeping families apart and children in foster care, the SPRF programs assist families in reaching their goal of finding a safe place to call home. In addition, Family Advocates help families continue to thrive by supporting them to achieve goals related to employment, financial stability, health, and education. If you are interested in the SPRF program, please speak to your Child Welfare Caseworker.
