

Agency services

Maritime Radio staff carry ship radio and radar equipment survey work and radio equipment installation approvals throughout the UK and overseas. They provide training to radio equipment surveyors and conduct competency examinations on behalf of the Department of Trade and Industry and the Department of Transport, as well as overseas administrations and other bodies involved in the maritime industry.

Other specialist consultancy services within Maritime Radio offer advice on frequency management, the interpretation and application of international maritime regulations and the design, equipment and management of coastal radio stations.

Consultancy from Maritime Radio

Over the years, Maritime Radio has been approached for advice and practical help in the planning and administration of systems operated by a diverse range of organisations, from Government departments to private enterprises. The help and advice we can offer is of the highest calibre, being based on over 75 years of experience in running one of the world's largest maritime radio networks.
