Cover Story

Herro! My name is Abyss, or byss byss, or dork, or stupid or actually I don't really know what my name is.. I just get called lots of different things for anything, just keep going and going like an Energizer Bunny. Even when I got my manhood taken away, I still didn't stop. The vet couldn't believe his eyes when I came out of anaesthetic jumping around, can you blame me, I got to see my Mummy again. But the happiness didn't last long cause after two days of me being inside and chewing Mummy's bed, shoes, underwear and favourite teddy, I had to go stay with Granma. But that's ok, cause I still got to do my favourite things, like taking people for a walk, fetching the ball and never returning it and playing tug-a -war with just about anything.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

G'day everyone and welcome back to PDODC for another year. It hardly seems like yesterday that we had the end of year breakup. I hope everyone had a safe and pleasant Xmas break with their puppies and human families and are all eager and excited to start training again.

We have had a few changes over the break with Carmel taking over from Karen as Secretary, Jess taking over from Ronnie as Treasurer, and Ray taking over from Sharon as Head Obedience Instructor. We have several new committee members as well and I wish them all well. It's always good to see new faces on board.

We had a really good turn-out for the end of year breakup, AGM and trophy presentation. Thank you to those who helped and congratulations to those who took home a trophy, but remember dog training is about having fun with your dog and a well-behaved dog is always a pleasure to have around.

Other than that, there's not a lot to say at the moment, except for welcome back and, if you have any, and I mean any, issues, I am here to listen to you so I can try and make your time with us as productive and enjoyable as possible.

Cheers.

Julian Stokes

VICE PRESIDENT / HEAD OBEDIENCE INSTRUCTOR REPORT

Welcome back to training for 2012 I hope every one had a great Christmas and New Year break and have come back refreshed full of vigour and enthusiasm.

I would like to than Victor for all the hard work he has put in over the last few weeks repairing and painting equipment ready for the start of training, I also thank all those members who gave of their free time to come and help, the numbers that turned up to help were disappointing but never the less they got the job done, again many thanks.

This year I hope to improve on the standard of training given to members, for some time now that standard has been slipping and I have some ideas that might help reverse that trend, this is in no way a criticism of instructors who have given their best, frequently in trying circumstances of large classes. The aim is to re-organise all classes starting with puppy class and working our way up to open class, there will be a number of instructor refresher training courses through out the year and this will be for all instructors including myself.

If any one would like to become and instructor please see me or one of the other instructors we can always use more instructors and training will be given to those that are interested, also I am open to suggestions from members on how they perceive the way we run the club and ideas on doing it better.

Here's to the start of a good no make that great and successful training year for all members.

Ray Gunter
Head Instructor/Vice President

AGILITY

Dog agility is a dog sport in which a handler directs a dog through an obstacle course in a race for both time and accuracy. Dogs run off-leash with no food or toys as incentives, and the handler can touch neither dog nor obstacles.[1][2][3][4][5] Consequently the handler's controls are limited to voice, movement, and various body signals, requiring exceptional training of the animal and coordination of the handler.

In its simplest form, an agility course consists of a set of standard obstacles laid out by a judge in a design of his or her own choosing in an area of a specified size. The surface may be of grass, dirt, or rubber. Depending on the type of competition, the obstacles may be marked with numbers indicating the order in which they must be completed.

Courses are complicated enough that a dog could not complete them correctly without human direction. In competition, the handler must assess the course, decide on handling strategies, and direct the dog through the course, with precision and speed equally important. Many strategies exist to compensate for the inherent difference in human and dog speeds and the strengths and weaknesses of the various dogs and handlers.

HEAD AGILITY INSTRUCTOR'S REPORT

In my Annual Report which I read out at the AGM last year - I predicted this result -- and today I am delighted to have received the confirmation from NSW as follows.

I need to highlight the fact -- that clubs from all around Australia participate and the results are kept and recorded in NSW.

This Event is called "Auslink".

A course is set and provided to each club -- one for each Quarter, March, June, September, December. Everyone competes under the same rules on the same course in the same quarter.

Despite a huge disastrous results at 2nd Quarter -- sending PDODC as a Team to last place -- PDODC recovered and finished in 2nd Place as a Team -- an amazing Effort.

At last count there were 138 Individuals -- and Danni Mc Culloch who ran for PDODC Team with both Inka and Gabby -- well as you can see --- Inka 1st (First) Gabby 6th andKim Nitschke and Bindi -- 20th Everyone running for the Team -- did extremely well -- for that is what Team means -- everyone working together.

Thank you to everyone who participated -- Competitors, Stewards, and Non Triallers who help set up and pack up -- most definitely also the Judges Joy Roberts and Roger Green (Mentor Judge) and Janine Feil (Trainee Judge at the time) -- so Mt Gambier -- you share in this as well :-) I predicted this kind of result in my annual report -- glad it happened :-)

Basic Obedience Training

All dogs whether puppies or older adults, large or small breeds, will receive some benefit in basic obedience training. They will become a socially responsible pet and will better respond to your commands and be more pleasurable to own than an unruly untrained dog.

Puppies as young as three or four months can commence training at any one of Dogs SA's affiliated dog training clubs. Puppies must be aged at least two weeks after their final vaccinations before taking them to a Club as they are not fully protected against the various contagious diseases that affect dogs until then.

In order to receive each title the dog must be certified by judges to have received three qualifying scores of 170 points or more in each class (Novice, Open, Utility) respectively, under at least two different judges for each class.

There is also a further Obedience Title available - the Obedience Champion (OC). A dog is only entitled to this title if it has attained it's Utility Dog Title and then proceeds to gain a further five scores of 185 or better in Utility (under at least two different judges), with three of these qualifying scores being for first place. The OC title, once approved by the Canine Control, is then used before the dog's name.

CLASSES - There are three classes in Obedience Trials: Novice, Open and Utility.

Novice Class: This class is for dogs of either sex from six months of age who are not eligible for the title of Companion Dog.

Open Class: This class is for dogs or bitches over six months of age that have qualified for the title of Companion Dog in the Novice Class.

Utility Class: This class is for dogs and bitches that have qualified for the title of Companion Dog Excellent in the Open Class.

Dogs cannot compete in higher classes until the owner has lodged an application with the state canine control for recognition of the title.

Para districts obedience club Instructors will instruct you to train your dog. Dogs are not handled by the Instructors so it is up to the new dog owner to listen, to understand and to practise at home the lessons taught in class. Puppies and dogs are taught to heel, sit, stay, drop, stand and come when called. Lessons are taught using reward based training which means dogs are rewarded by food or praise when they correctly respond to commands.

Generally puppies will stay in puppy classes until six months of age and then progress through the various levels to grade 5 or 6. Some breeds may learn faster than others and some handlers will have previous experience in training dogs which is a great advantage when training subsequent dogs.

Obedience Titles are granted once a dog has qualified for the title and the application has been received and approved by the state Canine Control. The titles granted in Obedience Trials are Companion Dog (CD) for Novice Class, Companion Dog Excellent (CDX) for Open Class and Utility Dog (UD) Utility Class respectively. When the dog has been awarded each title, the letters signifying the title is added after the dog's name. Only the highest level Obedience Title is used ie: if a dog called 'Max' attains the level of Utility Dog, it is known as 'Max' UD not 'Max' CD, CDX, UD.

DESEXING DOGS

Over 100,000 dogs are killed annually in Australian pounds mainly by the use of lethal injections or even gassing or shooting.

Why are so many unwanted dogs being killed? Is it because of backyard breeders and puppy mills.

Should owners be licensed to own dogs?

At present, anyone can buy a dog regardless of their ability to care for them properly.

Would mandatory desexing of all dogs (with a built-in exemption for under-aged pups or very senior dogs) other than those own by registered breeders help solve the problem?

Desexing dogs in veterinary hospitals

Desexing is a procedure carried out in a veterinary hospital and should be considered before the dog reaches maturity.

Desexing Puppies

Desexing puppies is a day surgery procedure with the pups being available for collection from the surgery in the afternoon.

Desexing female dogs

An undesexed female can produce between 6 and 8 pups per litter. You will be faced with the cost of vaccinating, desexing and then trying to find suitable homes for these pups, if the neighborhood dogs find she's in season.

Desexing male dogs

He's your best friend, but not if love is in the air. Urged on by the need to reproduce he will travel all across town, in amongst the traffic, to fight with other males to jump the fence and find a female in season.

Don't let him become a road statistic or end up in the pound.

An undesexed male dog is programmed to seek out bitches in season.

Your seemingly content dog may suddenly make a concerted effort to escape his comfortable and safe home to seek a mate, as a female's pheromones are detectable streets away.

Many of the dogs collected by council rangers are undesexed males on the trail of a bitch in season. These dogs are taken to the pound and destroy unless reclaimed or adopted.

The dangers of a dog weaving in and out of traffic are obvious and accidents can result in death and injury to the dog or the driver. Act responsibly by removing this risk factor – phone the vet and make an appointment to discuss having him desexed before he causes injury to himself or others.

The wandering undesexed dog can be responsible for fathering many litters of unwanted puppies. Consider this – females bear their litters approximately 9 weeks after fertilization. Litters vary with some of the small breeds producing on average between 4 – 6 puppies, However, it is often the larger, stronger breed of dog that has the strength to jump fences. Similar breeds of females may produce up to 14 puppies. If your dog has been busy while you've been working, any number of puppies may have been produced without your knowledge.

The happy, undesexed male dog you come home to, may not have spent his day playing in just his own backyard.

The leg humping dog is not a funny party trick, but an annoying and antisocial event. That along with the aggression that may be displayed by the undesexed male makes for an uncomfortable experience for those at the receiving end. If you are on the receiving end of such behaviour, insist the owner control the dog.

Desexing male dogs can prevent reproductive diseases such as testicular and prostate cancers, prostate enlargement, hormone-related tumors and infections.

The surgery itself is not a long one. The average procedure would take 10-20 minutes. With proper post-operative rest and care, your dog should be well recovered within 7-10 days.

Desexed males also get to enjoy a less demanding lifestyle. He will be more content just to stay home and interact peacefully with other household members.

FLYBALL

What is Flyball?

Flyball is a dog sport in which teams of dogs race against each other from a start/finish line, over a line of hurdles, to a box that releases a tennis ball to be caught when the dog presses the spring-loaded pad, then back to their handlers while carrying the ball.

Flyball is run in teams of four dogs, as a relay. The course consists of four hurdles placed 10 feet (3 m) apart from each other, with the starting line six feet (1.8 m) from the first hurdle, and the flyball box 15 feet (4.5 m) after the last one, making for a 51-foot (15.5 m) length. The hurdle height is determined by the shoulder height of the smallest dog in the team. Under current North American Flyball Association (NAFA) rules this should be 5 inches (12.7 cm) below the withers height of the smallest dog, to a height of no less than 7 inches (20.3 cm) and no greater than 14 inches (40.6 cm). Each dog must return its ball all the way across the start line before the next dog crosses. Ideal running is nose-to-nose at the start line. The first team to have all four dogs cross the finish line error free wins the heat. Penalties are applied to teams if the ball is dropped or if the next relay dog is released early. The current World Record is 14.690 seconds and is held by Touch N Go of Las Vegas.

Head Flyball Instructors Report

Here we are ready for another year of Flyball. We have a full calendar again this year, but before we go into that, just a follow up from the end of last year.

We held our annual Xmas Flyball Romp on the 3rd December (last year was our 5th year of holding this competition), though we decided due to the warm weather at that time of year, we thought we'd hold a round robin competition for the ½ half then an elimination round to determine a winner for the inaugural Flyball State Championship. The results from the round robin was; Ist Para Shooters; 2nd Para Troopers, 3rd Para Gliders and 4th Fly'd Over. The elimination round was decided on how we went in the round robin, so all bets were on as to who was going to be the first Flyball State Champs. I am happy to say that the Para Troopers, who consisted of, Jack (handled by Leigh), India (handled by Vanessa), Roxy (handled by Samantha), Mika (handled by Wayne), Cassie (handled by Chrissy) and Wally (handled by Gaynor), took out the honour! It was a great day and we were all finished by early afternoon. Once again thanks to Karen and Damien (from Dover) for timekeeping all day and Sharon, Eddy, Alli, Rebecca and Kaye for stewarding all day for us. Without your support it would make it so much harder for the competitors.

Enough on the past, looking forward to this year, with our first competition being held in March, then hopefully a demonstration at the Pet Expo (details still to be sorted and confirmed), then our annual pilgrimage to Portland Victoria, then the Royal

Show in September followed by our annual Xmas Flyball Romp in December. Whew what a busy year!!

If are interested in doing Flyball with your dog, please come down Monday night at 6:30, for an assessment. Your dog must be at least at level 3 obedience, must be at least 12 months old and must be sociable with other dogs / people. Or if you are interested in helping us out at our Competitions by Stewarding, please contact Chrissy on 0417 877 249.

Looking forward to a fun and exciting Flyball year.

DOGSSA

About Dogs SA

The SA Canine Association Inc (SACA), Trading as Dogs SA, is the State Office in respect to the affairs of registered breeders, the registration of pedigree dogs and the administration of canine exhibitions in South Australia. The Association is affiliated with the National Body, the Australian National Kennel Council (ANKC).

The SA Canine Association Inc commenced in 1952, taking over the affairs of the SA Kennel Association which had existed since 1914. Before 1914 there were several dog clubs, the oldest being the SA Poultry & Kennel Club founded in the late 1800's and still active today.

In 1951 the Royal A & H Society agreed to assume control of the SA Kennel Club and the name was changed to the SA Canine Association Inc. The Director of the RAHS became the SACA Secretary and the Royal provide use of an office at the Wayville Showgrounds.

In 1983 the SACA purchased an office in Thebarton to manage its affairs and from there purchased 17 acres of land at Kilburn which is known as 'SACA Park'.

The Association commenced trading as Dogs SA in 2008.

There are 95 affiliated Kennel, Group, Breed and Trials Clubs affiliated with Dogs SA which conduct shows and trials most weekends.

Dogs SA's responsibilities are:

- I. To maintain a register of pedigree dogs
- 2. To promote purebred dogs and their breeding
- 3. To promote all dogs participating in trial events
- 4. To approve all exhibitions and promote fair competition and sportsmanship
- 5. To conduct Judges training and licensing
- 6. To present the members views to local and State Government authorities
- 7. To provide recreational facilities to members

Appearance and Stature

by Kim Campbell Thornton & Debra Eldredge, D.V.M.

Dogs may well be the most genetically diverse species on earth. How many other species can claim such a range in size, appearance, and coat type? No matter what the breed or mix, though, every dog has certain external features.

Here are a few important anatomical terms:

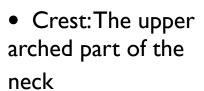

• Stop: The indentation between the eyes where the nasal bones and skull meet (where the muzzle rises up to become the skull)

- Ear leather: The flap of the ear
- Flews: The hanging part of a dog's upper lip

• Carpus: The area where the front leg joins the paw (corresponds to the human wrist)

 Withers: The high point at the top of the shoulders from which a dog's height is measured stomach spleen

rectum

• Stifle:The knee

• Loin: The area between the ribs and the hip bone

Keeping Your Dog's Coat Clean and Healthy

Author: Brock Lorber

Your dog wears a coat of insulation, helping him stay cool in the summer and warm in the winter. His coat holds essential oils close to his skin, and protects it from scrapes and scratches. Its hollow hairs help him stay afloat so he can concentrate on swimming rather than treading.

Without daily maintenance, however, your dog can quickly become cheap transportation for burrs and other plant seeds. Parasites love to burrow in the warm, moist areas next to his skin, presenting a health hazard for you and your dog. With a few simple steps, though, you can maintain the health of your dog's coat without resorting to an expensive groomer.

As a natural part of their lives, dogs are skilled at self-grooming. They are taught by their mothers that grooming limits skin-borne diseases and parasites. Young muscles and bones benefit from the increased blood flow their massaging mothers stimulate. As they grow and become self-sufficient, they begin to groom themselves and become very successful at it. When a dog is living in a home environment, however, they need some human help to maintain a healthy coat. Brush your dog frequently using a brush with soft bristles and a flea comb. Use light pressure and always stroke with the coat's grain. This collects shedding hair before it gets all over your furniture and clothes and eliminates matting before it becomes too snarled.

Long and thick coats fight a constant battle against snarls. Don't use brute force to clear them; nobody likes to have their hair pulled. Use water to soften caked fecal matter or mud and scissors or clippers if necessary on nasty tangles and burrs.

Many dogs get very anxious around brushes and scissors. Their fears can result in snarling and nipping, which is why many groomers resort to using sedatives. This does nothing to quell the unnatural fear for the next grooming session, however. A much better way is to take him for a long exercise session to remove all his nervous energy, and then put him in a calm state lying down. Introduce him to the grooming instruments while he is in this calm state. Once he is through investigating them, you can begin to use them while keeping him calm and submissive.

Inspect your dog's skin while you are brushing. Be alert for skin irritations, dry skin, fleas, ticks and any sign of infection. While you will probably need professional help for fungal or bacterial infections, other problems can be handled on your own.

The two major causes of dry, irritated skin are too much bathing and a lack of lipids in your dog's diet. Bathe your dog with shampoo as infrequently as possible. Also, mix in a teaspoon full of vegetable oil with his food. His coat will take on a healthy glow, and the oil will moisturize his skin. Chlorine-filled swimming pools often contribute to dry skin, however, swimming is great exercise and a lot of fun for your dog, so don't cut it out entirely.

Regular application of flea and tick powder will help prevent you from having to deal with fleas and ticks. If you still find a tick, however, use tweezers to grasp the tick by the head. Jerk straight out so the jaws come with the rest of the tick. Don't squeeze the tick's body or touch it with bare fingers. Wash your hands after handling the tick.

Excessive scratching and hair loss are two signs of flea infestation. Fleas don't just stay on your dog however; they jump off and infest your house. Check the floors and baseboards for granules that resemble salt and pepper grains.

Toss the dog in the bath with plenty of dog shampoo. Follow up with a breed-appropriate flea dip. Now comes the hard part – cleaning the house.

To clean the house you need to first get rid of the eggs and larvae. Vacuum all the carpets, including the baseboards, and all the upholstered furniture. Take the vacuum bag outside immediately and place it in a trash bin. Treat all carpeted and upholstered surfaces with specifically formulated insecticide to kill the adult fleas. Since the insecticides are toxic, you'll want to keep your children and animals away from treated surfaces until it dries.

With regular grooming and attention, your dog's coat will stay healthy and clean. That protects your dog, your family, your wallet, and your home.

PDODC VOLUNTEER PROGRAM

PDODC is run by a team of dedicated volunteers. Without volunteers not only would PDODC not be run but the majority of trials at our club would not exist. PDODC would like to thank all of its volunteers for everything they do.

Volunteers at PDODC do a variety of different things. Our main focus is what everyone sees and that is the instructors across all the 4 disciplines: Obedience, Agility, Flyball and Dancing With Dogs. However, there are a number of things we do behind the scenes to allow the club to run. We have people who volunteer in the office managing the member's database and answering the phones, people who work in the canteen, keep track of the clubs finances, order the uniform, run the website, write up and print the magazine, organise trials, judges and catering just to name a few. All of these roles are done within the club by people who give up their free time so that the club can function.

We have a good annual retention of membership plus a healthy grow rate of new members at PDODC. However, the small number of volunteers that we currently have are struggling to cater for this increasing figure and sadly, our volunteers are now being asked to sacrifice training their own dogs to ensure that all the classes have an instructor.

It would be really great if all PDODC members would volunteer for at least one club activity per year to help ease the stress and workload. Volunteering is a good way to meet new people, learn new skills, gain feelings of accomplishment and an increased sense of community and common purpose.

Please fill out the form overleaf if you are able to help us.
