

No Fillers. All Killers.

Chinaberry Lane is a rock/pop band bringing fresh energy, killer harmonies, and tight musicianship to bar stages, private events, and festivals across the Philadelphia suburbs. Covering everything from '70s icons to modern indie favorites, their setlists span The Beatles and Stevie Nicks to HAIM and Kacey Musgraves—with a serious soft spot for a great radio edit.

Fronted by dynamic lead vocalist Leigh Woolston Karsch—known for her signature stage presence—the band blends powerful vocals with a rock-solid rhythm section and layers of keys, guitar, and bass. Their members are seasoned performers with deep local roots and a shared musical history dating back to college jam sessions in the mid-90s, including time in acts: Lucinda Bright, Lemon Lime, Up Til Noone and collaborations with Billboard-charting artist Tommy Conwell.
