Artist: John Lonie

I was born in Dunfermline, Fife, in 1940 and still live there today. For as long as I can remember I have used art to learn about and process what I see around me.

As a young boy in the 40's I was inspired by early Walt Disney films and how the animators told the story, the emotions of the people and songs through their pictures. As a result, in my younger years I explored my thoughts through pencil sketches, later I inherited my first oil paints and this led to a lifetime discovery of many other art mediums.

I love the challenge to create, I will work with anything that makes a mark and you will be surprised what you can achieve if you just try!

The inspiration for my current work is still in what I see and learn about my world around me every day. I am delighted to express my surroundings through this

Go with the Flow...

In the world around us, even more so since 2020, I have realised that sometimes we need to just "Go with the Flow".

It's a process I have always used in my artwork, you can over complicate life and your art by always trying to plan what you're going to do.

Sometimes the best way to continue is to put your brushes or camera aside and come back later; you may need go through this process a few times and then it will always, like this exhibition of my work, eventually come together...

All artwork in exhibition is for sale.
(Different sized prints may be available on request)

Artist: Shirley Fife

After a 37 working in the NHS retirement has given me the opportunity to develop my creative side.

Walking, taking the time to really look, collecting & or photographing things along the way,, seeing the possibility of found objects, being inspired to make art & enjoying the ensuing dialogue, is my new way of life.

Utilising arts & craft techniques with less conventional materials: seaweed, sea glass, ghost fishing gear, other finds including those from charity shops, is for me both a challenge & opportunity.

Building my practice with the support & help of my dad John Lonie, artist & photographer has been made the experience all the more enjoyable & meaningful.

All artwork in exhibition is for sale.
