Had a great meeting with Christine last week. She is very knowledgeable and professional. When it comes to helping you with your finances and investing in a way that you minimize the downside while taking advantage of the upside of the market. Don't want to be SOLD something?? She will work with you without selling you on something that you don't want or need!

I am writing this letter of recommendation for Christine Horne. We have spoken about how she can help us manage and grow our money for our retirement years. She has always been very honest and concerned with our main interest, while always keeping the moral high road. She knows what the law requires and stays within those guidelines. I am very happy with what she has done for us and will continue to rely on her to help whenever we have questions.

I have known and worked with Christine Horne for the past 2 plus years. Having been in the investment world for twenty years, I have rarely come across a person who is as dedicated and passionate about her clientele as Christine. She consistently creates multiple scenarios and vets each to determine the best course of action for each and every one of her clients.

Also, Christine has no qualms in bringing in other experts to ensure all aspects of the plan are accurate and accounted for. This, I believe, is what helps separate Christine from others. She is not stubborn in only valuing her thought but looks for other's input thus placing the client's needs above herself.

Christine is a professional as well as a compassionate and genuine person. She takes time out of her busy schedule to assist me and answer any questions I may have concerning my insurance or financial concerns. She always goes the extra mile to make sure her clients are well taken care of and feel confident with their financial decisions. Her honesty and integrity put her in a rare category in the business world of today. I consider it an honor to know Christine. She is a great friend and confidant.

I am writing this in recommendation of Christine Horne. I have had the privilege of working with Christine to help create retirement plans that hopeful retirees can count on. Christine takes great care to find solutions that her clients can count on when they need a successful plan the most. The solutions Christine implements offer upside potential when markets perform well, but also downside protection when the markets behave poorly.
