Imani is an Atlanta based Interior Designer trained in all aspects of design. She completed and passed her interior design courses at the British Academy of Interior Design with Distinction.

Imani prides herself in providing direction and oversight throughout the entire design process, starting from the design concept to installation of furnishings and artwork. Imani offers expertise in whole house color palette selection, kitchen and bath design, lighting, space planning, and furniture selection. Imani James Interiors specializes in residential properties, focusing on everyday luxury balanced with functional, approachable designs.

At an incredibly young age, Imani was always captivated by the ability to assemble objects and put items together. Shortly after getting married, Interior Design became a passion while designing her first home. In 2015, after working in Marketing, Business Development and Project Management for many years at a global Accounting firm, Imani decided to pursue her passion and began studying Interior Design as a profession. While living in Europe with her family, Imani completed her Interior Design courses and training at the British Academy of Interior Design in London, Paris American Academy in France and Marangoni School of Design in Milan, Italy.

Imani finds it extremely rewarding when she can create and design spaces that compels her clients to fall in love with their home, especially given the current unprecedented times when homeowners are now spending a tremendous amount of their time at home. She loves creating interiors for her clients that are not only beautiful but also functional for their family. When she designs a room, it reveals the client's truest passions and those possessions that bring them joy every day.

She is especially passionate about sourcing natural elements and incorporating large scale art in her designs. There are many impressive art galleries in the Atlanta area, and Imani loves supporting the local art community.

She frequently travels to design trade shows and finds tremendous inspiration while visiting other countries. Some of her favorite moments are spending days immersed in design in another country. While traveling, she makes every effort to pay close attention to the surrounding architectural details, the colors in nature and the distinct design features from boutique luxury hotels.

Imani has been married for 15 years and has one son, Lucas, who is ten years old. As a family, they love to travel, visit surrounding restaurants and visit local art galleries.

Imani James Interiors was recently named in Modern Luxury magazine as One to Watch from the Black Interior Designers Network.
