Which One of Us Is Without Sin?

Once again, the Lord reveals to us His Mercy - Divine Mercy, not as the world offers it, but only in a way that the actual Source of Mercy could possibly do. To be honest, just like last week with the story of the Prodigal and Resentful Sons, I find myself struggling to be as forgiving as Jesus is. I can make excuses about how people have hurt me in the past, or betrayed my trust, or were not able to follow through on their word - and express judgment and a lack of forgiveness. But once again Jesus shows us Divine Love with this woman and her predicament. Are we able to do the same?

We can take a moment to review the scene. It was Jesus, the accusers, and the accused. What has always stood out to me is the question Jesus asks, "Where are they?" The accusers were quick to find her and bring her to Jesus and the mob rose up and was quick to condemn. But let's be honest, who had her back? No one until this point. Think about what they had to do to catch her "in the act." And of course, there was another person involved, but where is he? He was not there. This woman, I am sure, had other times in her life where she was left abandoned and forsaken. If we go back to the first woman - Eve, when she was being harassed and tempted by the serpent, where was Adam? He was silent and absent, not able to protect her. How many times have we blamed women, abandoned them, falsely accused them, made them feel less in our culture, our society and even in our church?

But the narrative changes here in the Gospel. Remember Jesus is the new Adam. I was moved in prayer thinking about the first Adam who was made from the ground, from dust, from dirt. And in his humanity, he failed. But Jesus takes this time to bend down, and just as he came from heaven to us, he humbles himself. In his great power we hear that he writes on the ground with his finger. Could it be that he is rewriting the destiny for us as humans? Especially the men? To give us another chance, and rewrite in our hearts how we are called to protect, and love, and serve the women in our lives?

I was thinking perhaps the reason why he had written on the ground was for these men to go home to their wives, and daughters, and the women in their lives, to honor them and love them. And really for some of us men who may read this, perhaps we too can pause, reflect, and allow God to rewrite upon our hearts the opportunity to lay down our lives once again for the amazing women in our lives.

Jesus bends down a second time, this time may be to help restore this woman, to re-write in her heart that she is a woman of great worth and dignity. He does not give her a free pass to return to her sinful ways, nor does he allow her to wallow in that suffering. Remember, her sinfulness and ours as humans comes from the effects of Original Sin. But Jesus revises the script – he amends the story, and he reminds us of our original innocence. There was a time before the Fall when all was right and lived in communion and friendship with God.

God desires the woman, and all of us to heal, and be restored from our past, our sinfulness, and brokenness. The beauty of our Sunday readings throughout Lent is that they remind us of the easy access we have to the Sacrament of Reconciliation. I encourage you to take time over the next two weeks to do an examination of conscience and invite God into your place of brokenness and sinfulness. Maybe you have found yourself as the woman accused, or maybe you have been part of the accusing mob holding a rock, but remember for all present that day, it was Jesus' love and mercy that healed them.

We are a few days away from entering into Holy Week. Let us pray for the grace to drop the heavy rocks and burdens of self-condemnation, or the rocks of others condemning and accusing us, and to know that we do not stand alone in those moments – we have a loving Savior – who sees us, knows our struggles, and is with us always. Have a Blessed journey into Holy Week!

Thank you for your presence and generosity.

Kindergarten

Kindergarten class K-1 invited their Dads to a "Cup of Joe" for St. Joseph's Day Celebration. The children loved having their dads come to school! Mrs. Diodati's class prepared a song to sing for their fathers and each child memorized a line to the Litany of St. Joseph. They recited it to the dads. The children and their fathers enjoyed donuts, St. Joseph's pastries, Irish soda bread and a cup of joe! They also made a craft of St. Joseph together. It was adorable to watch the children work closely with their dad. Each father left with a gift bag which included a frame and picture the child drew and decorated, a bookmark and St. Joseph prayer card. It was a fabulous and very special time spent thanking our fathers for being a positive role model in our life just like Joseph was for Jesus!

NY State has approved additional assistance through the Pandemic Emergency Assistance Fund (PEAF) and is distributing funds through the SNAP (food stamp) program. These emergency allotments are approved and distributed on a month-by-month basis and will continue until the public health emergency is lifted in our nation. These funds may be withdrawn as cash from the SNAP program! Recent distributions included $140 per eligible child for diapers, and $730 per eligible adult in multi-generational households. If you or someone you know is considering applying for SNAP, now is the time to do so! Please call the Social Ministry office for more information at 679-8532.
