

Kindermusik: Learning Through Music

Level 3: Wild Animal Park

Lesson Focus: Joy of Music

Parents sometimes don't realize how "easy" a certain developmental stage is until their children move on to the next. Being pregnant seems "easy" when you are waking up every two to three hours to feed a newborn. Babies seem "easy" when your toddler won't stay in the cart (quietly!) during your weekly grocery run. Toddlers seem "easy" when your preschooler stops taking an afternoon nap. Well, the truth is no developmental stage is actually "easy." Each stage comes with unique challenges and delights.

At Kindermusik, we celebrate your child's stage of development with the indelible joy of music. Woven through and around the learning in a Kindermusik class is the simple pleasure of making music together. When we play drums in class during "Ritsch Ratsch" or dance around the room to the "Yangtze Boat Song," your child expresses thoughts and feelings naturally and easily through movement and music. Plus, when you join in the music making in class or "rumble, rumble, rumble in the jungle, jungle, jungle" at home, you create memorable moments full of joy that you and your child will carry in your hearts from one developmental stage to the next!

Everyday Connection: Singing in the Rain. You don't need a sunny day to sing. Anytime is the right time to sing with your child. So, go ahead, sing along with the music from class or make up your own songs together. The memories you create will last a lifetime!
