Madison’s Original Hot Sauce: Flavorful & Healthy!

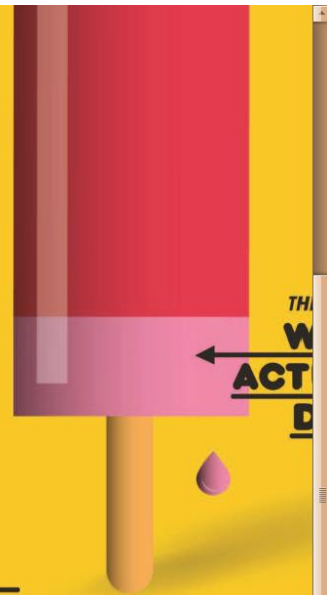

Hot sauce is a Southwest staple; we use it on nearly every type of food to give it flavor and an added kick. For those looking to branch out from the typical hot sauce, “Madison’s Hot and Madison’s ‘M’ sauces are both made with low calorie, gluten free, vegan ingredients and both are extremely versatile,” describes a recent press release about the new hot sauce. Created by veteran restaurant consultant Brad Child, Madison Hot Sauce is a condiment that’s flavorful and good for you, too. “It is a throwback to the way our ancestors cooked. It’s all natural and has no preservatives,” he says. The sauce is currently available at a variety of Valley restaurants, can be purchased online, and will hit local store shelves soon. Kelly's at Southbridge Opens in Old Town Scottsdale

North Valley diners now have another popular eatery to try as Kelly's at Southbridge—a swanky pub and restaurant—recently opened in Scottsdale. “Kelly's is an upscale casual restaurant shaped after a traditional pub featuring warm brick interior, low ceilings, mixed modern lighting, private dining rooms and an inviting patio,” describes a recent press release. Serving up an array of American classics with a modern twist, popular local chef Steve “Chops” Smith heads up the cuisine at the new locale. “Our high quality menu is full of original recipes that will appeal to a wide range of foodies,” he says.
