The Latest

We are excited to announce that our second patent has been approved!

To share the news on this patent's benefits, the RxAir360 team will host a Zoom meeting in April for all investors to hear about it. An email will be sent out to all of you to attend, so please keep watch for an email from us in the near future with the link for the Zoom meeting.

Great News

We had a phenomenal turnout for our first RxAir360 financial literacy class with Steven Morris. Some of you have already taken advantage of the product to protect your assets. We will be having future classes to ensure you have many possible options for protection. In case you missed it, an email with the recording of the session was sent to all of you.

Validation

To keep you up to date with what's going on in the world of Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy (HBOT), we strive to bring you information on how HBOT is helping people worldwide. Please take a look at the articles/videos provided to understand why we are so excited to bring this product to private practice physicians' examination rooms.
