Future Course Headings...

- Wednesday, December 18, 2019, 6:30 PM: Happy Holidays to all! This is the date and time of our annual SBMS Annual Holiday Party! We will again return to the Duke of Edinburgh Pub at 10801 N. Wolfe Road, Cupertino, CA to enjoy their excellent menu and selection of beer. Please let Ken Lum know by email at: lum40@comcast.net by Wed. Dec. 18 if you and any guests plan on coming.

I understand that our last year's experience was very noisy compared to the previous year when we were in an ornate private back room called the "Duke's Room" that was much quieter. So, I have prevailed on the proprietor to specifically give us back that room, and let's see how it goes this year. Just hope no one comes in and sets off a 12 pounder to get some attention!

- Saturday, April 18, 2020, 9 AM-5 PM:

The International Plastic Modelers Society (IPMS)/Silicon Valley Scale Modelers 7th Annual Silicon Valley Classic scale modeling convention will be held on this day at Napredak Hall, 770 Montague Expwy, San Jose, CA. We have had exhibitions there annually over the last several years in conjunction with Ages of Sail and always had great fun. Here are a couple of pictures from the last convention this spring. Should you have any models you want to show off, by all means bring them.

Our table will need volunteers to staff it all day, and we can set up an informal shift schedule to have at least one person on duty to promote our hobby. And impressment is not even necessary! More on this as we get nearer the date.

Maritime Matters of the Month

- Planning for 2020(Jim Rhetta)-It's time to start looking at plans for events in 2020. We could consider is another visit to the Red Oak Victory in Richmond which we visited in 2015. This could be combined with a meeting of the Red Oak Victory Model Shipwrights. Another activity could be a visit to the SS Jeremiah O' Brien and USS Pampanito combined with a visit to the SF Maritime National Historic Park and a meeting with the Hyde Street Pier Model Shipwrights.

USS Pampanito in San Francisco

The USS Hornet in Alameda, which held celebrations of the 50th Anniversary of the Apollo Moon landings this past summer is another possibility. We can discuss this and other ideas at the dinner and again in the Jan 2020 meeting.

●Excavation of the Wreck of HMS Invincible (Ken Lum)-*HMS Invincible was probably the most influential ship in the design of large British warships in the age of sail. Built by the French in 1744 as the 74-gun ship-of-the-line, L'Invincible, she was captured on May 3, 1747 while under the command of Captain Chevalier de St. Georges and Admiral Marquis de la Jonquière by a British fleet commanded by Admiral George Anson off the northwestern coast of Spain near Cape Finisterre during the War of the Austrian Succession. French merchant ships being escorted by de la Jonquière managed to escape.

Fig. 1 HMS Invincible in Royal Navy Service

Anson was very impressed with the layout of L'Invincible and had her measured out and recorded. She was then brought into service with the Royal Navy as HMS Invincible (Fig. 1) where she drew effusive praise from her captains. At this time, the British Admiralty had settled into the administratively ossified 1745 Establishments which greatly suppressed innovation. As a result, British warships of this time were often poor performers being slow, unstable, and having relatively inferior firepower.

By contrast, the French shipbuilders were free to experiment and produced many individually excellent ships, including the L'Invincible. Anson and others fought many political battles to allow shipbuilders to copy HMS Invincible and experiment with new ideas. By 1755 and then again in 1757, some British 74s were built whose designs were influenced by the HMS Invincible. These performed so well that by 1805 at Trafalgar, three quarters of all British ships-of-the-line were 74s of this type. And this influence continued all the way into the late 19th Century when steam ships started taking over.

HMS Invincible served in the Royal Navy altogether 11 years seeing much service but little combat. In 1758 she ran aground in the Solent outside Portsmouth and had to be abandoned (near the original site of the Mary Rose wreck). The wreck slowly disintegrated but was found by a fisherman, Arthur Mack, in 1979. Money was raised in 2016 to start an excavation of the wreck leading to some 2000 objects being recovered by this month by the Maritime Archeological Sea Trust (MAST), Bournemouth University, and the National Museum of the Royal Navy (NMRN) in Portsmouth (Fig. 2-4). Some of these will soon be on exhibit at the NMRN for those visiting there. There are no plans to raise the rest of the wreck which is in too poor a condition to do that.

Kit News (Ken Lum)

While at October's NRG meeting in New Bedford, MA, I learned of some new ship model kits to be released by BlueJacket Ship Crafters of Maine. These will be:

1. USS Perry

This brig was built in the Norfolk Navy Yard in 1843 and named after Oliver Hazard Perry. After commissioning in the US Navy, she participated in many actions around the world on behalf of US interests at the time. This included suppression of the slave trade from 1849-1854 (Slave capture, transport, and trading was banned by Act of Congress in 1808 and in the U.K. in 1807. But the use of slaves was not ended in the US until the end of the American Civil War). Also, there was a show of force during diplomatic tensions with Paraguay in 1859 that led to a treaty, and Union blockade duty during the Civil War where she captured a number of Confederate blockade runners. The 1/8"=1 ft. (1/96) scale kit is being offered at $295.

2. Charles W. Morgan midships cutaway

A new kit of the well-known last existing sailing whaling ship, Charles W. Morgan, now on display at Mystic Seaport, CT, is being offered as a midships cross section model. It's scaled at  $\frac{1}{2}$ "=1 ft. (1/24) making it a large model of 10" long and 19" high. It will be priced at \$599. Obviously, the model would make an excellent complement to the  $\frac{1}{4}$ "=1 ft. (1/48) scale complete ship model kit of the Morgan by Model Shipways.

3. Other proposed new ship model kits include:

- a. Cutaway USS Cairo Civil War ironclad-BlueJacket already has a kit of this ship without a cutaway of the interior. The new one opens the interior to view.
- b. Ellie Mara-Maine coastal schooner
- c. Wyoming-six masted Maine schooner which was the longest wooden ship ever built.
- d. USS Oregon (BB-3)-steel pre-dreadnought

More on these models later. Information on these kits is present on the BlueJacket website only on the digital copy of the print catalogue or the print catalogue itself which can be ordered at: <http://www.bluejacketinc.com>.

Methods and Techniques to Our Maritime Madness (Jim Rhetta)

Commercial chemicals used to blacken brass fittings are available from a number of vendors. However, some products such as Blacken It and BlueJacket's Brass Black seem no longer to be available.

I recently found one product called Photoetch Burnishing by AK Interactive at Castle Hobby at 1350 Coleman Ave, Santa Clara that gives brass a black iron look and produces a finish that seems scratch resistant. AK Interactive also makes a solution in a similar container for producing a rust finish. Other metals such as copper and bronze might also be darkened with this solution.

A further search turned up some other products such as Birchwood's Brass Black and Jax's Antique Blackener among others. Because these are toxic chemicals, shipping restrictions may apply.

Under Construction at the Model Shipyard

Kevin Flaherty giving away his unfinished ship models

More progress on George Sloup's Dutch pinnace, the Papegojan

Jacob Cohn with a 1/350 kit of the SMS Markgraf German battleship—a participant in the Battle of Jutland (1916)

There are more in-progress photos which will show up in the January, 2020 Foghorn.

Club Ship Model Fittings Library

The club now has a substantial slop chest library of kit fittings acquired from the estates of members and other ship model builders who have passed away or retired due to disability.

It is all now in the possession of Jim Rhetta (jmrhetta@aol.com) and is available to members in need of fittings for their projects.

This library will be brought to meetings for us to pick over. They include a variety of blocks, deadeyes, pins, chains, belaying pins, rudder hinges, rings, guns in various sizes and more. We sincerely thank all those who have contributed to this library.
