January 2026

10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1...HAPPY NEW YEAR!

I always appreciate a new year's eve celebration. Perhaps that's just because it's one of the few holidays I consistently have off from church work! But I think it's more than that. There's something about intentionally marking the passage of time that strums a chord in my heart. Pausing to feel time slip from one year to the next is a practice that resonates deeply for me.

If you don't take time to intentionally pause every once in a while, life rushes by in a mad torrent. The events of our lives come and go and we don't even notice what happens, reflect on what we'd like to be different, recognize what we have to be grateful for, or see how God has been at work in our lives. Study after study shows that pausing for this type of reflection helps people lead lives that are more meaningful, intentional, and grounded. New year's eve gives us the opportunity for this. We might choose to look back reflecting on what has been, or to look forward with the chance for a fresh start and another chance. Both are wonderful things to do from the perspective of life and faith.

And so in this first month of a new year, I'd like to offer you some of the practices that I have found helpful in facilitating this type of reflection. You don't need to do these on new year's eve (though I have, and that can be very meaningful!). Set aside some time this month and take up one or more of the following practices. Most of the ideas and the prayer below are adapted from Faithful Families for Advent and Christmas by Rev. Traci Smith.

Happy new year!

Pastor Emily

Make a 2025 time capsule. My family did this practice together for the first time last new year's eve for 2024, and I'm so looking forward to getting it out this year to see what we put in! We had each member of the family (who was old enough to do so) select one thing that reminded them of the year or of a particular memory from that year. We talked about what we picked and why, and put all the items in a used Christmas bag and shoved it in the top of a closet. If you do this on your own, you could choose a few items. Or do it with friends you see around the holidays and you'll have a built-in conversation starter for next year's Christmas or new year's eve party!

Reflect with family or friends! If you will get together with family or friends on or around new year's eve, take a moment to reflect on the year that's passed and look forward to the year to come. Use some of these questions to get the conversation going.

Looking back:

What are 3 memories from the last year that make you smile?

What are 3 things you are grateful for that happened last year?

What's a challenge you faced last year?

Looking forward:

What new thing would you like to try this year?

What skill or habit might you like to work on?

How can we show kindness to others in the year to come?

Jump start your reflection for next year with a memory jar for 2026. All you need for this one is a big mason jar (or a box) and scraps of paper and something to write with that are easily available throughout the year. Throughout 2026, jot down tiny moments of your everyday life and faith. It can be simple as: Made waffles for breakfast! Or Visited my sister today. Or Had lunch with my church friends. Then add the date and drop the scrap in your box or jar. Perhaps you even want to play off of our Advent theme, and add in little surprising ways you sense God showing up for you. You can also put in ticket stubs, programs, or other momentos. On new year's day or new year's eve next year, pull out the jar and take time enjoying the memories and reflecting on the past year.

Christmas all year—leave yourself a reminder. If you are someone who feels sad letting go of the holiday season at the start of the new year, then this practice is for you! The message that God came to earth as a baby to show the world just how much God loves us isn't a message limited to the Christmas season. So find one small decoration or Christmas item from your home to leave out as a reminder all year long. Perhaps one figure from your nativity set, or a small ornament. I have a couple of small nativity scenes and for the past few years I have chosen one to leave on my dresser all year long.

Christmas THANK YOUS from Pastor Emily!

I have some big thank yous to give out for all of the hard work and support in our congregations that made this a beautiful Advent and Christmas season.

To our Altar Guild members at Augustana and Grace. THANK YOU for the hard work you put in decorating, changing paraments, setting out poinsettias, and setting up for extra services.

To our church secretaries/office managers/ladies extraordinaire, Katie at Augustana and Sharon at Grace. THANK YOU for the extra hours you put in compiling, editing, and printing bulletins, for extra mailings, for handling last minute phone calls and questions, for guiding this pastor in her first Christmas in new congregations. Your patience and grace mean the world to me and to many!

To our office volunteers at Augustana and Grace. THANK YOU for coming in to prep extra bulletins, mailings, Christmas Eve candles, and more.

To our food pantry volunteers. THANK YOU for showing up for our guests in what is a busy time of year for everyone.

To our building volunteers. THANK YOU for making sure things are neat, tidy, and in good repair, especially this month and always.

To our wonderful congregations. THANK YOU for your understanding when I don't know how things are "always done," for making room to try some new things, and for bringing me and my family into old traditions with kindness.

A large, stylized, purple 3D text reading "THANK YOU!" with an exclamation mark. The letters are slanted and have a drop shadow, giving them a three-dimensional appearance. The exclamation mark is also purple and has a small trail of smaller squares behind it.

A prayer for new year's eve:

As the clock turns from one year to the next,
We say thank you, God.
Thank you for the year that has passed.
Thank you for the year to come.
Each new year brings new joys and new challenges.
Make us ready for whatever will come this year,
Amen.

Lent begins with Ash Wednesday on February 18, and we’re going All In.

Have you ever decided to go all in on something?

Maybe it was when you chose your profession or decided to get married. Perhaps you made the exciting but terrifying decision to become a homeowner. Maybe it was when you joined our congregation, or if you came to faith later in life, when you decided to be baptized.

When it comes to our faith, Jesus shows what it is like to be all in for the reign of God. It means being fully invested, deeply committed. There are no backup options. Everything is on the line.

Before we can go all in, though, God shows us the way. God knows that going all in for this beautiful broken world is a challenge, so God goes all in on our behalf first, revealing what it is like to bet it all on love.

God tends broken relationships. God goes all in on all the highs and lows that life brings, from moments of transcendent beauty to the deepest hopelessness. And in Jesus, God pours out every last drop of love, all of it for the sake of a world that may never fully understand.

This Lent, God is all in for us. Let’s go all in for God’s love, too.

Look for more about our Lenten plans in the February newsletter and on social media.
