

By 2035, the population of adults older than 65 years is expected to be greater than the population of children.

The older adult population is the most rapidly growing population in the United States. The projected number of Veterans age 60 and older is about 11 million. Along with common age-related complex and high-risk chronic medical conditions, care of older adult Veteran requires a holistic approach that focuses on the culture, and subcultures, and unique health care needs resultant of military service.
