Since its inception in 2007, the Atchafalaya Basin Festival has remained a beacon of cultural immersion and community, and it continues to be a FREE admission experience for all. This annual extravaganza offers a day of live band performances from Acadiana's best musicians to keep your feet moving and locally inspired cuisine to keep your taste buds jumping. The festival provides a welcoming space for campers and invites travelers to immerse themselves in the heart of Louisiana's unique culture while enjoying the festivities. The Atchafalaya Basin Festival stands as a celebration of America's largest wetland and allows both residents and tourists alike to savor the authentic flavors and vibrant spirit of this enchanting region. The Festival is coordinated by the Catholic communities of Henderson and Butte La Rose.
