Employee Retention Program Qualifications

Even if your business did not have a revenue reduction in 2020-2021 or was deemed essential...
You can still qualify for ERC!

Some examples include:

- Change in business hours
 - Partial or full suspension of your operations
 - Shutdowns of your supply chain or vendors
 - Reduction in services offered
 - Reduction in workforce or employee workloads
 - A disruption in your business (division or department closures)
 - Inability to visit a client's job site
 - Suppliers were unable to make deliveries of critical goods or materials
 - Additional spacing requirements for employees and customers due to social distancing
 - Change in job roles/functions
 - Tasks or work that couldn't be done from home or while transitioning to remote work conditions
 - Lack of travel
 - Lack of group meetings

The key considerations involve...

Due to the government order of partial or full suspension, was your business NOT able to continue its activities in a comparable manner and did that result in a more than normal impact on your business operations?

If you answered yes to any of the above, we are confident we CAN help you MAXIMIZE your ERC refund!
