James smith is 7 years old, today at 10am, he cut his arm on a rusted screw which was protruding from the wooden play house in the nursery garden. He was bleeding badly from a deep wound to his left arm.

He was given first aid treatment by me, a large dressing was applied over the wound and elevation was implemented. A few minutes later he started to show signs of shock, he was laid down and legs raised. He started to vomit while another member of staff was calling the ambulance.

Ambulance arrived at 1035 and James went to hospital with the duty manager.

Mum and dad where informed that James had been taken to the local hospital.
