FROM RECEIVERSHIP

NOTICE OF MOTION TO CLARIFY, MODIFY OR GRANT RELIEF FROM RECEIVERSHIP INJUNCTION; AND, TO INTERVENE

TO THE COURT, ALL PARTIES, AND ALL COUNSEL OF RECORD:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on July 24, 2025, at 10:00 a.m. or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard in Courtroom 6D of the above-entitled Court, located at 350 West First Street, Los Angeles, California, 90012, proposed intervenor Jim Gally (“Gally”) will and hereby does move this Court for an Order: (i) to clarify, modify or grant Gally relief from the Receivership Injunction so that he may file litigation against non-Receivership entity 915 ELM AVENUE CVL, LLC (“CVL”); and, (ii) to allow Gally to intervene as a party in the above-captioned action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24. Gally seeks relief from the stay and to intervene to protect his interests that the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”), Essex Capital Corporation (“Essex”), Ralph Iannelli (“Iannelli”) and CVL (collectively, the “Parties”) have placed at issue in this proceeding.

Specifically, Gally sold his lumberyard property and business in Carpinteria, CA (the “Lumberyard”) to non-Receivership entity CVL, in which Iannelli and another person named William Reyner (“Reyner”) were LLC Members. Part of the CVL acquisition included cash which was paid at closing and part of the acquisition included a deferred promissory note from Essex for $1.5 million. Gally transferred the Lumberyard to CVL and, soon thereafter, the Iannelli and Essex Ponzi scheme was exposed. As a result, Gally was not paid on the deferred promissory note.

The Receiver has himself pled that the Essex note was to be paid with Ponzi funds. Gally would never have agreed to sell the Lumberyard to CVL if he knew the truth, that Iannelli planned to use Essex Ponzi funds to complete the purchase. That fact was concealed from Gally by CVL which defrauded Gally into selling his Lumberyard to CVL.

1 Gally holds claims against CVL, including for fraud, which Gally seeks to 2 pursue, but presently cannot due to the Receivership Injunction, the scope of which 3 was and remains overbroad due to a misrepresentation to the Court. The Receiver has 4 acknowledged the misrepresentation and resultant overbreadth in the Injunction, but 5 has not acted to correct it to Gally's detriment.

6 Essex and Iannelli jointly misrepresented to the Court that Iannelli was the 7 "Listed Owner" of the Lumberyard when they knew that CVL was the listed owner.
8 As a result, the Receivership Injunction improperly froze the Lumberyard. The actual 9 Listed Owner of the Lumberyard is CVL, a non-Receivership entity that remains a 10 stand-alone going-concern operating the Lumberyard even today. CVL was itself 11 forced to file a motion to remove the freeze on the Lumberyard. Subsequently, before 12 the Court heard CVL's motion, Essex, Iannelli and CVL entered into a settlement 13 agreement to resolve the dispute over the Lumberyard which remains in the 14 possession of CVL.

15 The Receiver for Iannelli/Essex has stated his intent to liquidate his partial 16 interest in CVL and use sale proceeds to pay himself and to partially pay net loser 17 investors in the Essex Ponzi scheme, which does not include Gally who did not invest 18 in Essex but rather sold his Lumberyard to CVL. At the direction of the Receiver, 19 Gally did submit a claim against Essex as Essex issued the fraudulent promissory 20 note.

21 The Receiver contends that Gally's submission of a Receivership claim against 22 Essex cuts off Gally's rights against non-Receivership entity CVL. The Receiver 23 offers no legal authority for the position and merely points to the instructions for 24 Receivership claim form which purport to warn claimants that submitting a claim 25 against the Receivership "may" result in the loss of "other remedies." Even accepting 26 the Receiver's interpretation of the claim form instructions, the words address the 27 potential loss of "other remedies" against the Receivership. The words say nothing 28 at all about any potential waiver or loss of independent claims against non-

1 Receivership third-parties like CVL. It makes no sense to shield CVL from Gally's 2 fraud claims so that CVL can keep the Lumberyard CVL defrauded Gally out of.
3 Nothing could be less equitable. The Receiver's interpretation of the facially 4 ambiguous claim instructions would further harm Gally who has suffered enough due 5 to CVL's fraud.

6 At present, the Receivership Injunction precludes Gally from asserting that 7 non-Receivership entity CVL defrauded him. Likewise, the Injunction precludes a 8 Lumberyard patron who is injured while shopping at the Lumberyard from suing CVL 9 without first spending thousands of dollars to seek permission to do so from this 10 Court. Receiver's Counsel agrees the Injunction requires anyone harmed by CVL to 11 seek permission of this Court before suing CVL. That is an unconstitutional taking.
12 The Injunction is indefensibly overbroad and must be modified to allow Gally and 13 others harmed by non-Receivership entity CVL to pursue their legal rights.

14 Gally hereby moves the Court: to modify the injunction to clarify that it does 15 not cover non-Receivership entity CVL; alternatively, Gally seeks relief from the 16 Injunction so Gally may sue CVL to protect his Lumberyard sale rights; and, Gally 17 seeks to intervene so his rights are protected as a party, or alternatively, if Gally is 18 denied the right to sue CVL, Gally moves for an Order directing that the Lumberyard 19 or any interest in its owner CVL shall not be sold, transferred, or encumbered until 20 such time as Gally has obtained review of such a denial.

21 Gally met and conferred with the Receiver in May and June, 2025, the SEC in 22 June 2025, and Ianelli in June 2025 and attempted to meet and confer with CVL and 23 the several Intervenor in June 2025. No one consented to the relief sought herein.
24 The SEC and the Receiver made it clear the motion was necessary.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. THE STAY SHOULD BE MODIFIED TO CLARIFY THAT IT DOES NOT COVER CVL. ALTERNATIVELY, GALLY SHOULD BE GRANTED RELIEF FROM THE STAY TO SUE CVL FOR FRAUD AND RESCISSION AND GALLY SEEKS TO INTERVENE

Separate and apart from the Iannelli/Essex Ponzi scheme, Iannelli and Reyner formed and used a single purpose entity, CVL, to purchase the Lumberyard owned by Gally, an innocent business owner who did not invest in the Essex Ponzi scheme. CVL (via at least Iannelli) defrauded Gally into selling his Lumberyard to CVL for cash that was paid and with an Essex promissory note that was not paid as the Essex Ponzi scheme was exposed before Iannelli could pay Gally Ponzi funds. Due to Iannelli's fraud which is imputed to CVL as Iannelli was a CVL LLC member, CVL now possesses the Lumberyard that was never fully paid for. The Receiver, who now holds Iannelli's partial interest in CVL, plans to sell his partial interest in CVL to fund the Receivership and partially pay investors in the Essex Ponzi scheme, which does not include Gally as he never invested in Essex.

The Receiver's plan to ignore CVL's fraud on Gally and to cut-off Gally's right to sue CVL so that the Receiver may maximize the value of his partial interest in CVL and sell it to Iannelli's co-member Reyner, will benefit fraudster CVL, Reyner and the Receiver, while inequitably re-harming the innocent Gally. Equity demands that Gally's rights arising out of CVL's fraud be protected and that he be allowed to assert them to seek rescission, or alternatively, for damages, including the unpaid portion of the Lumberyard purchase price.

Gally seeks the requisite modification or relief from the Receivership Injunction to sue CVL, even though CVL and the Lumberyard are not assets of the Receivership, because the Injunction requires anyone harmed by the going concern CVL or its Lumberyard to obtain this Court's permission before suing CVL for anything, be it the Lumberyard fraud, a discrimination claim by a Lumberyard

1 employee, or a Lumberyard customer's slip and fall.

2 Gally also seeks to intervene to allow him to act as a party while getting relief 3 from the Injunction and to protect himself if his rights to sue CVL are denied by 4 seeking review of any such denial before the Lumberyard is improperly liquidated for 5 the benefit of the Receiver and Essex Ponzi investors which does not include Gally.

6 II. RELEVANT BACKGROUND REGARDING THE ESSEX FRAUD
7 ON PONZI SCHEME INVESTORS, CVL'S SEPARATE FRAUD
8 ON GALLY AND THE RECEIVERSHIP INJUNCTION'S
9 CONFLATION OF THE TWO DISTINCT FRAUDS

10 Iannelli used his Essex entity run a Ponzi scheme that defrauded dozens of 11 Essex investors. (ECF 1, SEC Complaint, at ¶ 4.) Receiver Winkler was appointed 12 by the Court to, among other things, recover the assets of Iannelli and Essex and to 13 use them to partially pay Essex Ponzi investors. (ECF 66.)

14 Separate and apart from Iannelli's Essex Ponzi scheme, Iannelli and Reyner 15 formed CVL, for the specific purpose of purchasing the Lumberyard from Gally.
16 (ECF 115-3, at ¶ 8.) Reyner and Iannelli were both Members in CVL. Id., at ¶ 18.
17 The Lumberyard purchase price CVL agreed to totaled $4,175,000 which was to 18 occur in two separate payments of $2,675,000 and $1,500,00. (Declaration of Jim 19 Gally in support hereof ("Gally Decl."), ¶2 and Exh. 1 thereto, the Purchase 20 Agreement). CVL paid the initial $2,675,000 to Gally with proceeds from a bank 21 loan and took possession of the Lumberyard, while the second payment of 22 $1,500,000, which was to come from Essex, was never paid. (Gally Decl., ¶2.)
23 Iannelli intended to use Essex Ponzi funds to pay the second installment to Gally.
24 (ECF 241- p.4:6-20, Winkler Decl., ¶ 2.)

25 Gally did not know Iannelli and Essex were running a Ponzi scheme and if he 26 had, Gally would never have agreed to sell his Lumberyard to CVL. (Gally Decl., 27 ¶3.) CVL retains the Lumberyard which remains a going concern. (ECF 241 pp. 8-28 9.)

1 Although neither CVL nor the Lumberyard are “Receivership assets,” in 2018 2 the Receiver subjected both CVL and the Lumberyard to an Injunctive freeze. See 3 Order Regarding Permanent Injunction [ECF 113 (“September Order”) at 4:7]. This 4 was done (i) as to CVL by a representation to the Court that CVL was an entity 5 “affiliated” with Essex (ECF 125, p.10) and (ii) by a misrepresentation that the 6 Lumberyard was owned by Iannelli, when that was not true. (ECF 115-1 p.11:17-28.) 7 The Lumberyard was acquired from Gally, not by Iannelli, but by CVL, as 8 conclusively demonstrated by the deed to the Property. (See ECF. 115-3, Reyner 9 Decl., at ¶ 8 & Ex. 1.) Nonetheless, the Receiver has not corrected the 10 misrepresentation regarding Lumberyard ownership. Ibid.

11 On December 6, 2018, the Receiver submitted a Proposed Order that sought, 12 in part, to place an “immediate freeze” on the Lumberyard and to protect Essex 13 “affiliated entities” and CVL from litigation. The Court signed the Order on 14 December 21, 2018. (ECF 66 (“December Order”).)

15 III. THE RECEIVER HOLDS NO CLAIM TO OWNERSHIP OF THE 16 LUMBERYARD OR ANY OTHER CVL ASSET

17 Essex is not a Member of CVL. See (ECF 115-3, Reyner Decl. at ¶ 4 (listing 18 members).) Although Iannelli was a CVL Member, his interest now held by the 19 Receiver was and remains limited solely to his “membership interests.” The law 20 regarding an LLC member’s rights, or his/her creditors’ rights to LLC assets is clear 21 and well established. A limited liability company is distinct from its members. Cal.
22 Corp. Code § 17701.04(a); Grigoryan v. Experian Info. Solutions, Inc., 84 F.Supp.3d 23 1044, 1079 (C.D. Cal. 2014). Therefore, members of a limited liability company have 24 no direct ownership in the company’s assets. Grigoryan, 84 F.Supp.3d at 1079.
25 Rather, each member’s interest is limited to their transferable interest (i.e., right to 26 receive distributions), their right, to the extent provided for in the Operating 27 Agreement, to vote or participate in management, and any rights granted for access to 28 information regarding the company. Cal. Corp. Code § 17701.02(r), (aa). Iannelli’s

1 status as a member of CVL gave him no direct ownership over any of CVL's assets.
2 Because CVL's assets are distinct from Iannelli's, CVL's assets are also not available 3 to pay his debts, or those of the Receiver, as Iannelli's successor in LLC membership.
4 Any judgment against Iannelli can be enforced against his transferable interest (right 5 to distributions) in CVL, but the creditor, like Iannelli or any other person to whom 6 he transfers his interests in CVL, cannot interfere with the management and activities 7 of CVL. See Cal Code Civ. P. § 708.310; Cal. Corp. Code §§ 17705.02, 17705.03; 8 La Jolla Bank, FSB v. Tarkanian, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 97846, *3-4 (E.D. Cal.
9 2013); Comments to Revised Uniform Limited Liability Company Act (July 6-12, 10 2013) at 127 (creditor cannot "interfere with the management and activities of the 11 limited liability company"). Therefore, even if the Receiver or someone else obtained 12 Iannelli's membership interests, the transferee receives no right to access CVL's 13 assets, to manage CVL, or to interfere with its Lumberyard business. See Cal. Corp.
14 Code § 17705.02(a)(3)(A) (transfer does not entitle transferee to "vote or otherwise 15 participate in the management or conduct of the activities of a limited liability 16 company."), § 17705.03 (court can order charging order against "transferable interest 17 of the judgment creditor," which requires the limited liability company to pay the 18 judgment creditor "any distribution that would otherwise be paid to the judgment 19 debtor.") CVL's assets therefore belong to CVL, not to Iannelli or Essex, the assets 20 should not be protected by the Injunction.

21 IV. GALLY IS ENTITLED TO RELIEF FROM THE INJUNCTIVE STAY
22 TO SUE CVL

23 The Ninth Circuit has three factors to consider in deciding whether to lift a 24 receivership stay: "(1) whether refusing to lift the stay genuinely preserves the status 25 quo or whether the moving party will suffer substantial injury if not permitted to 26 proceed; (2) the time in the course of the receivership at which the motion for relief 27 from the stay is made; and (3) the merit of the moving party's underlying claim." SEC 28 v. Universal Financial, 760 F.2d 1034, 1038 (9th Cir. 1985).

A. Denying Gally Relief from the Injunction Will Not Genuinely Preserve the Status Quo of the Receivership Res, but it Will Cause Gally to Suffer Substantial Irreparable Injury.

When considering a request for relief from a Receivership Injunction or stay, the Ninth Circuit requires the Court to balance the interest of the receiver and also the moving party: “[T]he interests of the Receiver are very broad and include not only protection of the receivership res, but also protection of defrauded investors and considerations of judicial economy.” SEC v. Universal Financial, 760 F.2d 1034, 1038 (9th Cir. 1985).

First, as to the status quo of the Receivership res, Winkler was appointed Receiver for Essex, not CVL. CVL is not an entity in Receivership. CVL was not used to defraud investors in the Essex Ponzi scheme. CVL was formed specifically to purchase the Lumberyard from Gally. While Receiver Winkler holds Ianelli’s partial interest in CVL, he does not and cannot hold any legitimate ownership interest in CVL assets, such as CVL’s cash, or the Lumberyard CVL defrauded Gally out of. While the Receiver’s partial interest in CVL may be part of the Receivership res, the Lumberyard taken from Gally by non-Receivership entity CVL is not part of the legitimate Receivership res. Allowing Gally to sue to CVL to recover his Lumberyard, or to recover damages arising from his sale of the Lumberyard to CVL will not disturb the status quo of the legitimate Receivership res.

Second, as to substantial harm to Gally: Gally did not invest in the Essex Ponzi scheme; his property was taken by CVL’s fraud and Gally was never fully paid for it. The Lumberyard CVL acquired by fraud should not be used, directly or indirectly, to pay the Essex Receiver and Essex investors. Ignoring CVL’s legal debt to Gally and using the Receivership Injunction to bar Gally from suing CVL will substantially and irreparably harm Gally.

Moreover, the relief Gally seeks to enable him to sue CVL should be granted because the Injunction insulates the going-concern Lumberyard, not just from Gally,

1 but from all legal recourse in any shape or form. In other words, the Lumberyard, 2 which is open for business today, cannot be sued by a patron that is run over by a 3 forklift, by an employee who claims he is being discriminated against due to race or 4 otherwise, or even by a tax authority should CVL decide not to pay taxes. The 5 Injunction should be modified to allow lawful claims that CVL harmed people to be 6 pursued without first filing papers with this Court. Receiver's Counsel acknowledges 7 the overbreadth of the Injunction as to non-Receivership entity CVL and the Receiver 8 should have sought to correct the Injunction on his own rather than forcing Gally to 9 file this Motion.

10 B. Now is the Appropriate Time to Grant Gally Relief from the 11 Injunction

12 “Where the motion for relief from the stay is made soon after the receiver has 13 assumed control over the estate, the receiver's need to organize and understand the 14 entities under his control may weigh more heavily than the merits of the party's claim.
15 As the receivership progresses, however, it may be less plausible for the receiver to 16 contend that he needs more time to explore the affairs of the entities. The merits of 17 the moving party's claim may then loom larger in the balance.” SEC v. Wencke, 622 18 F.2d 1363, 1374 (9th Cir. 1980); SEC v. Universal Financial, 760 F.2d 1034, 1038
19 (9th Cir. 1985). The cases are significant by what they mean by “early in the case.” 20 When the Ninth Circuit heard the original Wencke case, the receivership had been 21 pending for two years. The Court denied relief from stay and sent the matter back to 22 the District Court to reexamine the necessity for the stay. Upon remand, the District 23 Court continued the stay in effect and the movant again appealed. When the Ninth 24 Circuit heard the Wencke case again, the receivership had been pending for six years.
25 The Ninth Circuit felt that was long enough and, therefore, lifted the stay.

26 Here, the Stay or Injunction has been in effect for over 6 years. The Receiver 27 has already stipulated to lifting the stay as to other litigants who were pursuing actual 28 Receivership assets, not CVL. (ECF 163.) He articulated his grasp of CVL

1 Lumberyard-related issues when he moved to settle the Lumberyard dispute with the 2 other CVL Member (ECF 241) which motion was granted. Based on Receiver's prior 3 actions, it is clear that relief from the Injunction for Gally to sue CVL is appropriate 4 at this stage in the case.

5 C. Gally Holds a Meritorious Claim for Rescission or Damages
6 Based on CVL's Fraud

7 Gally was defrauded by CVL in CVL's purchase of Gally's Lumberyard 8 because Iannelli intended to use Ponzi funds to complete CVL's purchase of the 9 Lumberyard and Iannelli's intent to defraud Gally is properly imputed to CVL.
10 (Uecker v. Ng (In re Mortgage Fund '08 LLC) Bankr.N.D.Cal. Aug. 14, 2013, Nos.
11 11-49803 rle, 12-4099 rle) 2013 Bankr. LEXIS 3385). Gally's claim that CVL 12 defrauded him into selling his Lumberyard is a proper basis on which to seek 13 rescission. Cal. Civ. Code § 1689. The Court should not weigh the merits of Gally's 14 effort to rescind, or alternatively to recover damages for, among other things, the 15 unpaid purchase price, but rather the Court should only consider whether Gally's 16 claim is colorable. SEC v. Wencke, 742 F.2d 1230, 1232 (9th Cir. 1984); US v. Acorn
17 Tech Fund, L.P., 429 F.3d 438, 444 (3rd. Cir. 2005). Here, Gally contracted to sell 18 his Lumberyard to CVL, with the majority of funds paid up front and another payment 19 deferred. The Receiver states the second installment to be paid by CVL to Gally was 20 to come from Iannelli's intended diversion of Essex Ponzi money. (ECF 241, p.4:6-21 20.) Gally did not know that Essex was a Ponzi scheme, or that CVL intended for 22 Gally to be paid over $1M in stolen money. Iannelli and CVL concealed from Gally 23 the intent to pay Gally with Ponzi funds which Gally would never have accepted.
24 Ibid. That CVL did not actually pay the second installment to Gally does not undercut 25 the colorable nature of Gally's fraud claim as Iannelli's fraudulent intent (even if 26 unrealized) is still properly imputed to CVL. Likewise, Gally has a colorable claim 27 that CVL damaged Gally by Gally's non-receipt of the full Lumberyard purchase 28 price.

1 Gally is prepared to refund the partial purchase money paid by CVL to Gally 2 which funds came from a bank loan, not Ponzi money. Gally seeks relief from the 3 Injunction so that it is modified in scope to allow him to assert the rights the Injunction 4 improperly takes from Gally to sue CVL for rescission and damages, including the 5 unpaid portion of the purchase price. Gally should be granted relief from the Stay so 6 he may sue CVL. If the Court will not modify the Injunction's overbreadth as to 7 CVL, Gally should also be allowed to intervene to protect his rights as a party.

8 V. GALLY SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO INTERVENE¹

9 Gally seeks to intervene in this case as a matter of right under Fed. R. Civ. P.
10 24(a)(2) or, alternatively, permissively under Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b)(1)(B). Courts 11 broadly construe the requirements for intervention to favor granting intervention to 12 ensure that the proposed intervenor's interests are protected. Southwest Ctr. For 13 Biological Diversity v. Berg, 268 F.3d 810, 818 (9th Cir. 2001 (citing Forest 14 Conservation Council v. United States Forest Serv., 66 F.3d 1489, 1493 (9th Cir.
15 1995); see also United States v. City of Los Angeles, 288 F.3d 391, 397 (9th Cir. 2002).

16 A. Intervention as of Right

17 The Ninth Circuit applies a four-part test to assess intervention as a matter of 18 right: (1) the applicant must have a "significantly protectable" interest relating to the 19

20 ¹ Gally's memorandum supporting his motion to intervene fully states the legal and factual 21 grounds for intervention. Gally intends to sue CVL in State Court in Santa Barbara County, 22 which is the location of the Lumberyard, the location of the fraud and the location of the 23 parties to the transaction. Therefore, and particularly given Gally's limited intent to protect 24 the improperly targeted Lumberyard, Gally respectfully submits that literal compliance with 25 Fed. R. Civ. P 24(c) (i.e., submitting a pleading) is not required. See, e.g. Beckham Indus., 26 Inc. v. Int'l Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 474 (9th Cir. 1992) ("Courts, including this one, have 27 approved intervention motions without a pleading where the court was otherwise appraised 28 of the grounds for the motion."); Shores v. Hendy Realization Co., 133 F.2d 738, 742 (9th Cir. 1943) (holding that although petitioner did not meet the literal terms of Rule 24, intervention was proper because he had fully stated the legal and factual grounds for intervention); Su v. Siemens Indus., 2013 WL 3477202 at *2 (N.D. Cal. 2013) (where proposed intervenor provides a statement of its interest to intervene, its submission provides sufficient notice to the court and the parties to satisfy Rule 24(c)).

1 property or transaction that is the subject of the action; (2) the application must be 2 timely; (3) the applicant must be so-situated that the disposition of the action may, as 3 a practical matter, impair or impede the applicant's ability to protect the interest; and 4 (4) the applicant's interest must not be adequately represented by the existing parties 5 in the lawsuit." Arakaki v. Cayetano, 324 F.3d 1078, 1083 (9th Cir. 2003). Gally 6 satisfies each of these requirements:

7 1. Gally has a "significantly protectable" interest at issue in this 8 Receivership action

9 The test for a "legally protectable" interest in the subject of the dispute is not a 10 "bright-line rule." United States v. Alisal Water Corp., 370 F.3d 915, 919 (9th Cir.
11 2004). A party has a sufficient interest for intervention purposes if it will "suffer a 12 practical impairment of its interest as a result of the pending litigation." Cal.Ex rel.
13 Lockyer v. United States, 450 F.3d 436, 441 (9th Cir. 2006). Gally seeks the 14 modification of the Injunction which overbroadly insulates the going-concern non-15 Receivership entity CVL and the Lumberyard from any and all legal recourse by the 16 entire world. Additionally, Gally seeks to rescind based on CVL's fraud in its 17 purchase of the Lumberyard from Gally. Alternatively, Gally holds a claim for 18 damages, including CVL's refusal to pay the full purchase. If Gally is unable to sue 19 CVL, CVL will unfairly get to keep the unpaid-for Lumberyard. Gally's interests are 20 "legally protectable."

21 2. Gally's motion is timely.

22 Timeliness for intervention depends on: "(1) the stage of the proceeding at 23 which an applicant seeks to intervene; (2) the prejudice to other parties; and (3) the 24 reason for and length of delay." United States v. Alisal Water Corp., 370 F. 3d 915, 25 921 (9th Cir. 2004). As stated above, relief from a Receivership Injunction is not 26 appropriate until such time as the Receiver has had sufficient time (measured in years) 27 to work on and understand the estate. Receiver Winkler has reached that point.
28 Accordingly, Gally's motion for relief from the Injunction is neither premature, nor 1 tardy. It is timely. Moreover, as Gally seeks only to protect his interests in the 2 Lumberyard sale by correcting the scope of the Injunction and does not seek to alter 3 any other prior orders that impact the Parties, there is no conceivable prejudice to any 4 party. Finally, the claims are timely in terms of the statutes of limitation, which were 5 tolled by the Receivership stay. FTC v. Connolly, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 98446, *10.

6 3. Disposition of this action may impair Gally’s ability to 7 protect his interests.

8 An intervenor satisfies this requirement if the action may “as a practical matter 9 impair or impede the movant’s ability to protect its interest.” Cunningham v. David 10 Special Commitment Ctr., 158 F.3d 1035, 1038 (9th Cir. 1998). The movant need 11 only make a “minimal” showing that the representation of its interests by existing 12 parties “may be inadequate.” Arakaki v. Cayetano, 324 F.3d 1078, 1086 (9th Cir.
13 2003). The Supreme Court has stated that the burden of making a showing of 14 inadequacy should be treated as “minimal.” Trbovich v. United Mine Workers of Am., 15 404 U.S. 528, 538 n.10 (1972). The Receivership Injunction precludes Gally from 16 suing CVL which Gally needs to do to either recover his Lumberyard, or recover 17 damages including the unpaid portion of the Lumberyard purchase price that he was 18 never paid. If Gally cannot obtain relief from the Injunction (or seek review of a 19 denial for relief) Gally’s ability to protect his rights against the non-Receivership 20 entity CVL will be harmed.

21 4. Gally’s interests are not adequately represented by the 22 existing parties.

23 Reyner and the Receiver’s plan is to profit off the Lumberyard without CVL 24 ever fully paying Gally for it. The Receiver intends to sell his partial interest in the 25 Lumberyard to fund the Receivership and partially pay Ponzi investors which 26 excludes Gally. Neither CVL, Reyner, the Receiver or anyone else will advocate for 27 Gally or protect his rights to sue for rescission or to recover damages from CVL. The 28 Receiver will not support Gally even though Counsel acknowledges the Injunction

1 precludes the entire world from suing the going concern CVL Lumberyard for 2 anything without first obtaining an Order from this Court. Gally is on his own. Any 3 decisions from this Court, whether interim or final, could impair Gally's ability to 4 protect his interests, especially where the Court is being asked to make decisions 5 based on incorrect information, such as who actually owns the Lumberyard. Gally is 6 entitled to intervene as of right.

7 B. Alternatively, Gally is entitled to intervene permissively.

8 Permissive intervention is appropriate where (1) the moving party has a claim 9 or defense which shares a common question of law or fact with the main action; (2) 10 the motion is timely; and (3) the court has an independent basis for jurisdiction over 11 the applicant's claims. Donnelly v. Glickman, 159 F.3d 405, 412 (9th Cir. 1998).

12 1. Common Question.

13 The existence of a common question is liberally construed in favor of 14 intervention. Kootenai Tribe of Idaho v. Veneman, 313 F.3d 1094, 1108-1109 (9th 15 Cir. 2002); 7C Wright, Miller & Kane, Federal Practice and Procedure § 1911, 357-16 63 (3d ed. 1986). This element is satisfied as long as there is a single common 17 question of either fact or law. Meyer Goldberg, Inc., of Lorain v. Fisher Foods, Inc., 18 823 F.2d 159, 164 (6th Cir. 1987). Based on the Injunction and the positions taken 19 by the Receiver, the existing action involves questions related to Gally's proposed 20 action, including: (i) whether the scope of the Receivership Injunction is proper or 21 whether it overbroadly insulates non-Receivership entity and going-concern CVL and 22 its Lumberyard from any and all suit; (ii) the question of who has a claim to rightful 23 ownership of the Lumberyard as between Gally and CVL which defrauded Gally out 24 of the Lumberyard; and (iii) the question of who has a claim to rightfully access 25 CVL's assets, as between the Receiver and the defrauded Gally. This nexus is 26 sufficient to satisfy the minimal burden of showing one common question of either 27 law or fact.

1 2. Timeliness.

2 As set forth above in the section on Intervention as of Right, Gally's Motion is 3 timely.

4 3. Jurisdiction.

5 The SEC's and Receiver's claims to CVL's assets are based on their powers 6 under the federal Securities Act and the Exchange Act. Any attempt by Gally to 7 correct the scope of the Injunction, perfect his claims to assets CVL possesses and/or 8 to clarify the proper scope of the SEC's and Receiver's rights to either preclude Gally 9 or to claim "ownership" over CVL assets does not disturb that jurisdiction.

10 VI. CONCLUSION

11 For the foregoing reasons, Gally respectfully requests that the Court allow 12 Gally: to free Gally from the Receivership Injunction's protection of CVL, either via 13 the Court's modification of the Injunction, or by ordering that Gally is granted relief 14 from it so that Gally may sue CVL to protect Gally's rights arising out of the 15 Lumberyard sale; to intervene to ensure his rights are protected; and, if Gally is denied 16 the right to sue CVL, to issue an Order directing that the Lumberyard shall not be 17 sold, transferred or encumbered until such time as Gally has obtained review of such 18 a denial.
