INTRODUCTION AND AIMS

Angling Coaching Initiative recognizes that all children, young persons, and adults at risk have a right to protection from abuse. Angling Coaching Initiative takes its responsibilities to protect and safeguard the welfare of children, young persons, and adults at risk seriously.

We will:

Appoint a Welfare Officer and three Assist Welfare Officers as part of the management structure at Angling Coaching Initiative.

Have a system for recording any concerns about possible abuse.

Have a system for dealing with concerns about possible abuse.

Respond swiftly and appropriately to all suspicions or allegations of abuse.

Maintain good links with statutory childcare authorities and the Angling Trust Safeguarding Team

Have robust procedures to ensure that it is safe for volunteers to work with children, young persons, and adults at risk.

THE POLICY

Angling Coaching Initiative recognizes that many children, young persons and adults at risk are the victims of abuse. Angling Coaching Initiative has adopted the policy contained in this document (hereafter "the policy"). This policy is a living document and will adapt and change to reflect new legislation / guidelines and best practices. It will be subject to a mandatory twelve-month review. The document is owned by the Chairperson and no changes can be made without their consent. Any amendments to the policy will be recorded including changes to the Welfare Officer and Assistant Welfare Officers.

Safeguarding is everyone's responsibility. Everyone who works with children, young persons, and adults at risk has a responsibility for keeping them safe. This policy applies to all coaches and volunteers who act on behalf of Angling Coaching Initiative and who come directly into contact with children, young persons, and adults at risk.

DISCLOSURE AND BARRING SCHEME (DBS)

Angling Coaching Initiative coaches have an Angling Trust Level 1 or Level 2 qualification and an enhanced Disclosure and Barring Scheme certificate. In addition, these coaches have First Aid training.

Angling Coaching Initiative have adopted the policy that all volunteers taking part in club angling coaching sessions will be subject to an enhanced Disclosure and Barring check. Individuals can apply for a DBS check using the following links contained in this document. The certificate is confidential and should only be seen by the Welfare Officer.

Any certificate that shows a conviction should be risk assessed against the intended role of the subject. The DBS certificate is a confidential document and can only be viewed with consent. In the case where a conviction is shown Angling Trust will complete a Risk Assessment on behalf of Angling Coaching Initiative.

The risk assessment undertaken by the Angling Trust Safeguarding Team will determine whether the person is High Risk, Low Risk or No risk, but details of any convictions will not be disclosed. The result of this risk assessment will be conveyed to the contact at Angling Coaching Initiative.

A DBS is only a snapshot of a person on the day of issue. Angling Coaching Initiative will re-check DBS certification on a three-year cycle. (See Appendix C for flow diagram process in relation to volunteers). Many individuals have DBS checks from other organizations and Angling Coaching Initiative will need to ensure that it is at an enhanced level and less than three years old.

RESPONDING AND REPORTING A SAFEGUARDING CONCERN – PROCESS AND PROCEDURE

At Angling Coaching Initiative, we want everyone to feel safe and valued when they are at club at events, so safeguarding our members while they are involved with club activities is very important to us. It is vital that any concerns about the safety of children, young persons or adult at risk are reported to the club through Angling Coaching Initiative Welfare Officer / Assist Welfare Officers to ensure that steps are taken to resolve any issues. So, what do you do if you witness an incident that involves bullying, abuse, violence, or anything that you find concerning? Or if you are approached by a young person or an adult at risk who confides in you about alleged abuse?

In either instance, doing NOTHING is not an option. It is not your job to investigate the disclosure that has been made or the incident witnessed, but you do have a responsibility to respond and report appropriately. If a young person or adult at risk has put their trust in you by making a disclosure, you need to understand how hard it was for them to tell you. They need to feel confidence that you take the matter seriously and know what to do next. Concerns raised by a third party also need to be recorded and reported.

TRY TO:

Remain calm.

Listen carefully and don't interrupt.

Explain early that you can't keep the details to yourself and that others are there to help.

Allow them to continue at their own pace.

Don't ask leading questions. Tell me, Explain, Demonstrate. (TED)

Reassure them they are not to blame, and they have done nothing wrong.

Try to protect evidence, photos of injuries, clothing, etc. and take written notes. Make sure you record date, time and as much detail as you can. Keep it locked away.

Contact the Welfare or Assist Welfare Officer at the first opportunity who will record the details in writing on an Angling Trust Incident reporting form and share it with the Angling Trust's Lead Safeguarding Officer. The Lead Coach at the coaching session and the Chair-Person MUST be informed of any incident without delay by Welfare or Assist Welfare Officer.

DO NOT:

Panic, show alarm or shock.

Ask questions that lead. Just questions for clarification.

Speculate, make assumptions or judgements.

Make promises or keep secrets.

Make comments about the alleged abuser.

Share it with other people other than Welfare Officers that can know.

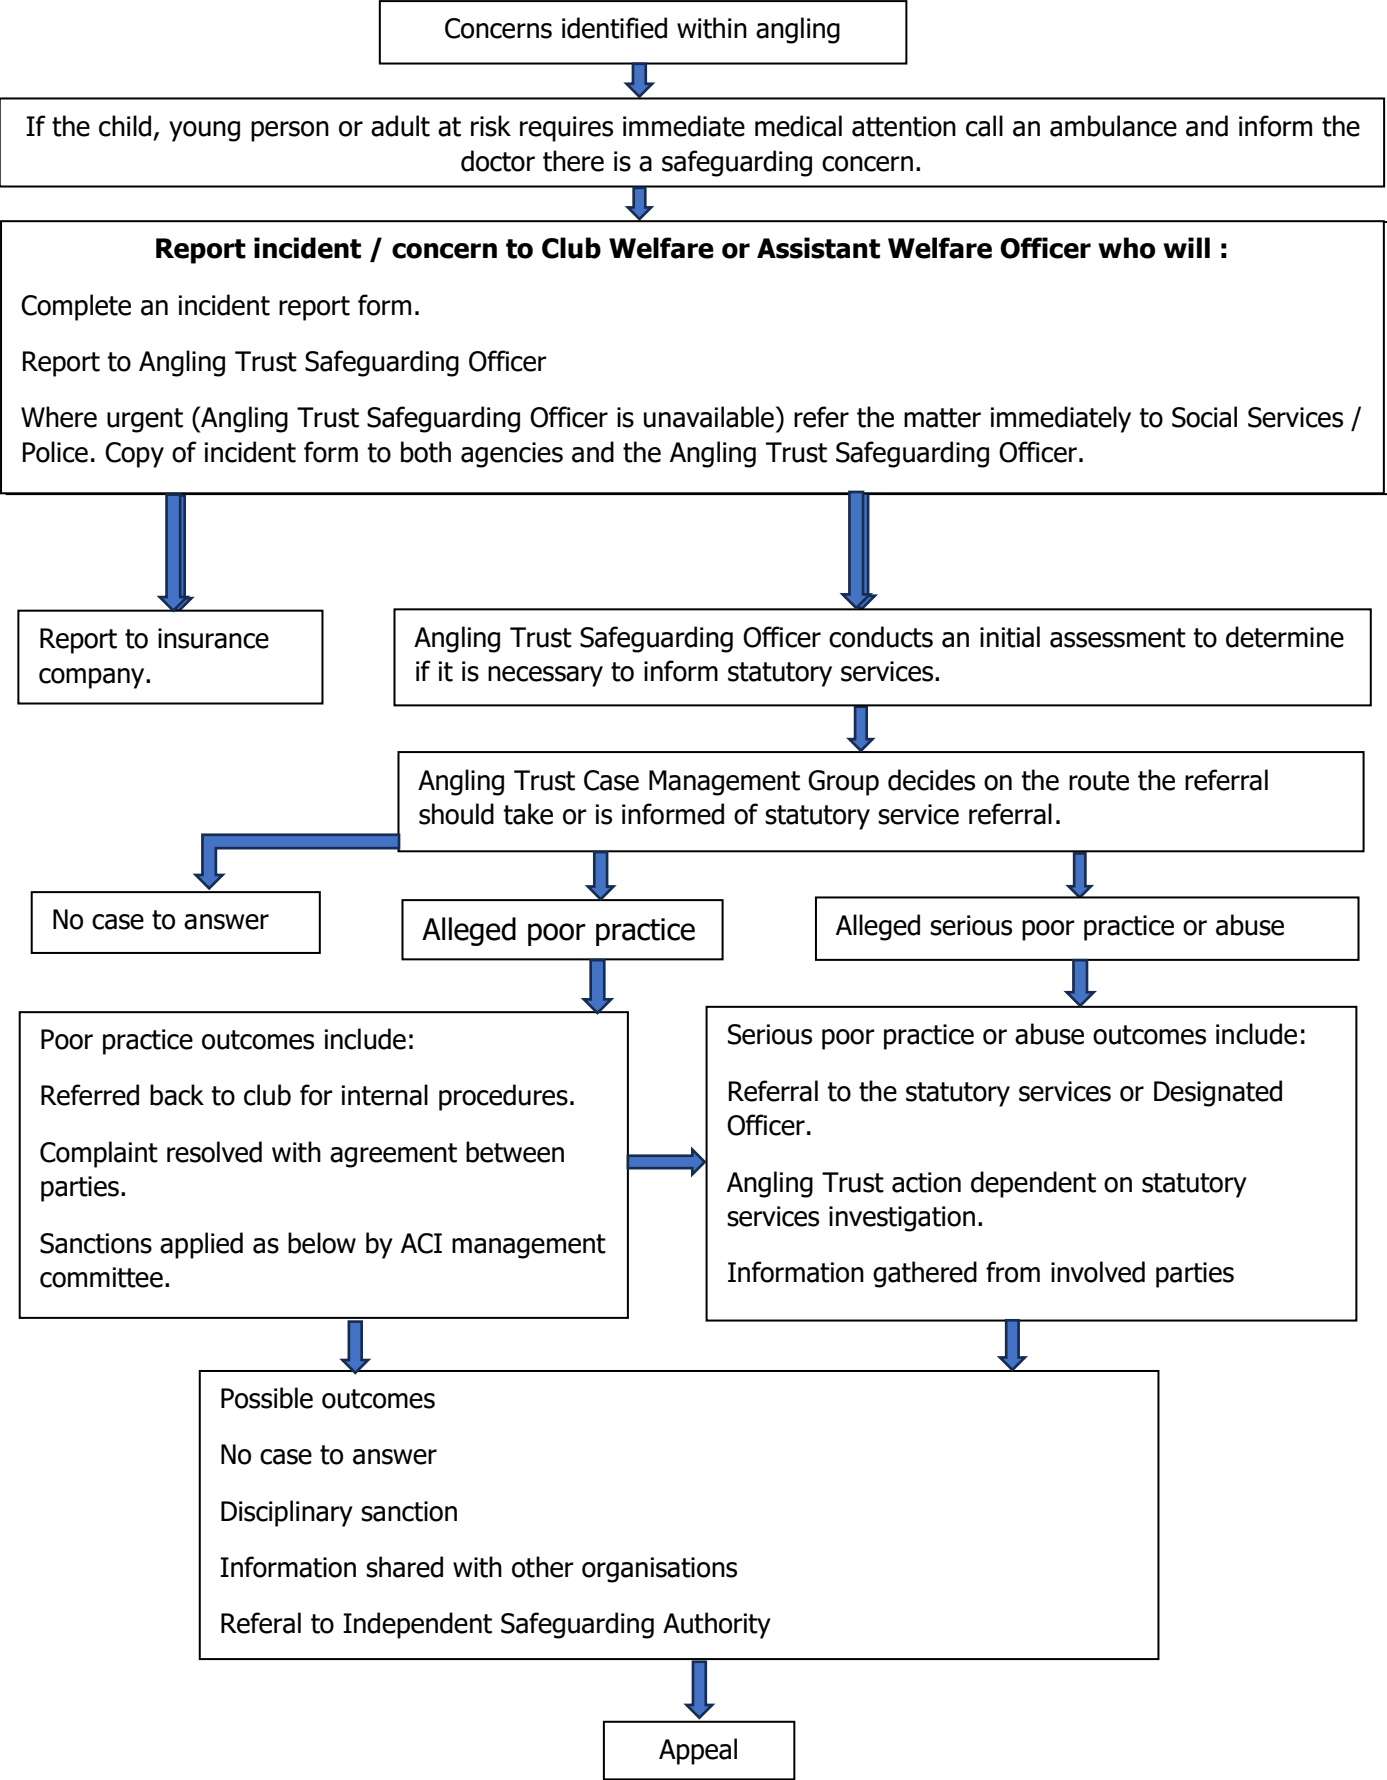

Delay in reporting it.

Keep it to yourself.

If you are unable to contact the Welfare Officer or Assistant Welfare Officers, then contact the Angling Trust Safeguarding lead (email addresses below). If you feel that the person is in immediate danger or in need of medical treatment dial 999.

APPENDIX B

LEGAL DEFINITIONS

Child/Young Person

In this policy a child or young person is anyone who has not yet reached their 18th birthday. The fact that a child has reached 16 years of age, is living independently or is in further education, is a member of the armed forces, is in hospital or in custody in the secure estate, does not change his/her status or entitlements to services or protection.

Abuse

A form of maltreatment of a child. Somebody may abuse or neglect a child by inflicting harm, or by failing to act to prevent harm. Harm can include ill treatment that is not physical as well as the impact of witnessing ill treatment of others. This can be particularly relevant, for example, in relation to the impact on children of all forms of domestic abuse. Children may be abused in a family or in an institutional or community setting by those known to them or, more rarely, by others. Abuse can take place wholly online, or technology may be used to facilitate offline abuse. Children may be abused by an adult or adults, or another child or children.

Child Sexual Exploitation

Child sexual exploitation is a form of child sexual abuse. It occurs where an individual or group takes advantage of an imbalance of power to coerce, manipulate or deceive a child or young person under the age of 18 into sexual activity (a) in exchange for something the victim needs or wants, and/or (b) for the financial advantage or increased status of the perpetrator or facilitator. The victim may have been sexually exploited even if the sexual activity appears consensual. Child sexual exploitation does not always involve physical contact; it can also occur through the use of technology.

Controlling or Coercive Behaviour

Also known as coercive control, the use of control and coercion in relationships is a form of domestic abuse and, since December 2015, a criminal offence.

Controlling and coercive behaviour is outlined in Government guidance issued under section 77 of the Serious Crime Act 2015 as part of the Government's non-statutory definition of domestic violence and abuse.

It is described as:

Controlling behaviour is: a range of acts designed to make a person subordinate and/or dependent by isolating them from sources of support, exploiting their resources and capacities for personal gain, depriving them of the means needed for independence, resistance and escape and regulating their everyday behaviour; and

Coercive behaviour is: an act or a pattern of acts of assault, threats, humiliation and intimidation or other abuse that is used to harm, punish, or frighten their victim

Coercive control is a form of abuse that involves multiple behaviours and tactics which reinforce each other and are used to isolate, manipulate and regulate the victim. This pattern of abuse creates high levels of anxiety and fear. This has a significant impact on children and young people, both directly, as victims in their own right, and indirectly due to the impact the abuse has on the non-abusive parent. Children may also be forced to participate in controlling or coercive behaviour towards the parent who is being abused.

Domestic Abuse

Domestic abuse can encompass a wide range of behaviours and may be a single incident or a pattern of incidents. Domestic abuse is not limited to physical acts of violence or threatening behaviour, and can include emotional, psychological, controlling or coercive behaviour, sexual and/or economic abuse. Types of domestic abuse include intimate partner violence, abuse by family members, teenage relationship abuse and adolescent to parent violence. Anyone can be a victim of domestic abuse, regardless of gender, age, ethnicity, socio-economic status, sexuality or background and domestic abuse can take place inside or outside of the home.

Domestic abuse continues to be a prevalent risk factor identified through children social care assessments for children in need. Domestic abuse has a significant impact on children and young people. Children may experience domestic abuse directly, as victims in their own right, or indirectly due to the impact the abuse has on others such as the non-abusive parent.

Emotional Abuse

The persistent emotional maltreatment of a child such as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to a child that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person. It may include not giving the child opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them or 'making fun' of what they say or how they communicate. It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. These may include interactions that are beyond a child's developmental capability, as well as overprotection and limitation of exploration and learning, or preventing the child participating in normal social interaction. It may involve seeing or hearing the ill-treatment of another. It may involve serious bullying (including cyber bullying), causing children frequently to feel frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of maltreatment of a child, though it may occur alone.

Extremism

Extremism goes beyond terrorism and includes people who target the vulnerable – including the young – by seeking to sow division between communities on the basis of race, faith or denomination; justify discrimination towards women and girls; persuade others that minorities are inferior; or argue against the primacy of democracy and the rule of law in our society.

Extremism is defined in the Counter Extremism Strategy 2015 as the vocal or active opposition to our fundamental values, including the rule of law, individual liberty and the mutual respect and tolerance of different faiths and beliefs. We also regard calls for the death of members of our armed forces as extremist.

Neglect

The persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. Neglect may occur during pregnancy as a result of maternal substance abuse. Once a child is born, neglect may involve a parent or carer failing to:

- provide adequate food, clothing and shelter (including exclusion from home or abandonment)

- protect a child from physical and emotional harm or danger

- ensure adequate supervision (including the use of inadequate care-givers)

- ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment

It may also include neglect of, or unresponsiveness to, a child's basic emotional needs.

Physical Abuse

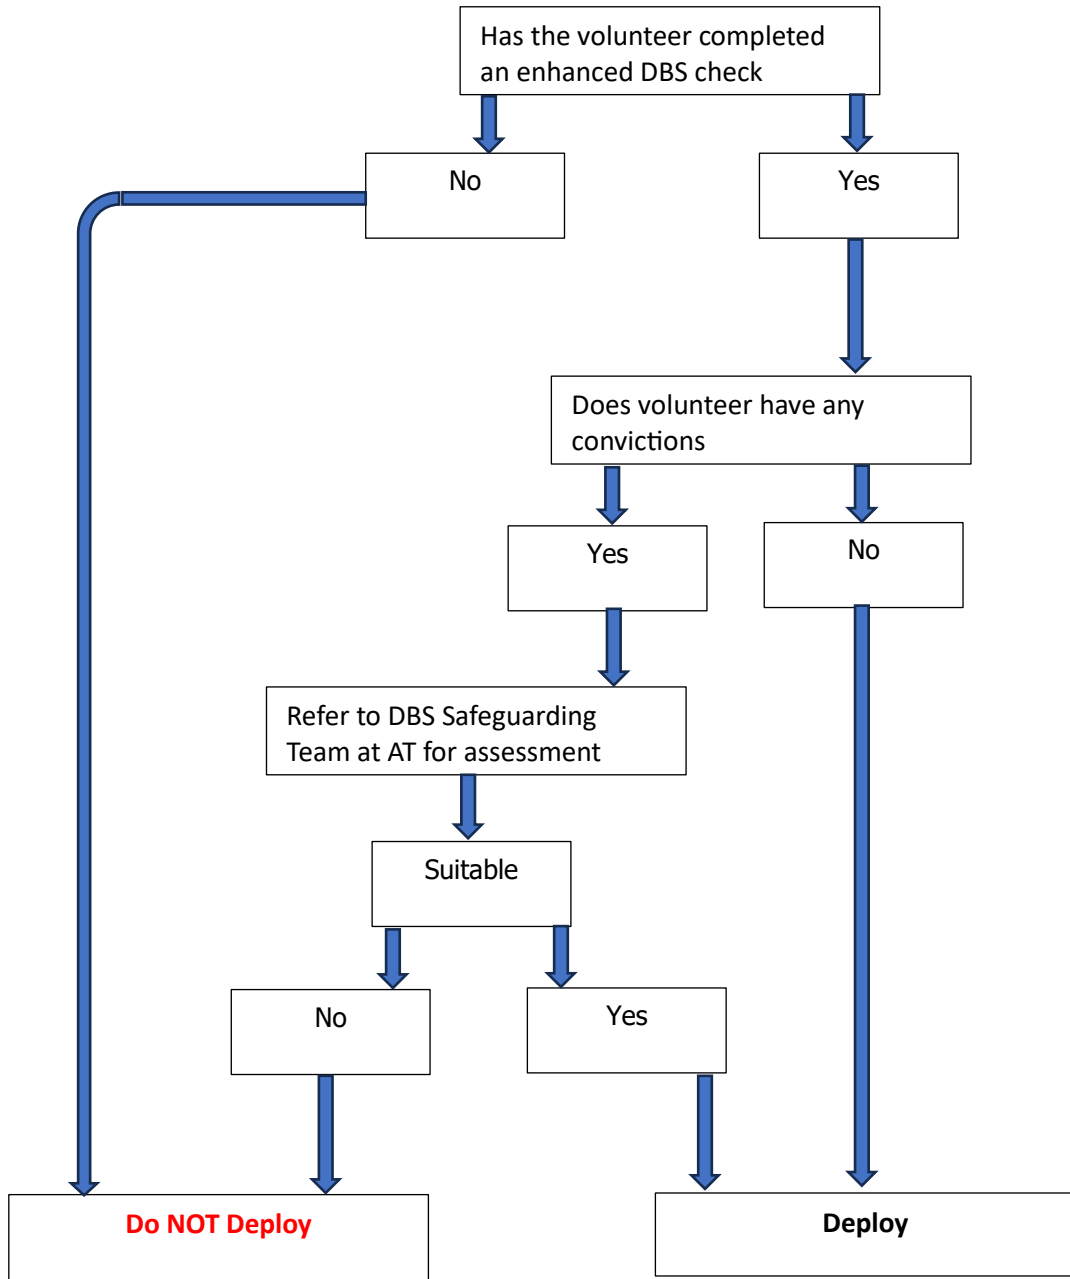

A form of abuse which may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces, illness in a child.

Sexual Abuse

Involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving a high level of violence, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. The activities may involve physical contact, including assault by penetration (for example, rape or oral sex) or non-penetrative acts such as masturbation, kissing, rubbing and touching outside of clothing. They may also include non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, sexual images, watching sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways, or grooming a child in preparation for abuse. Sexual abuse can take place online, and technology can be used to facilitate offline abuse. Sexual abuse is not solely perpetrated by adult males. Women can also commit acts of sexual abuse, as can other children
