Contractors Should Be Compliance-Ready Before the Bid

In today's fast-moving construction industry, time really is money — especially when it comes to mobilizing crews on new jobsites. But for many small and mid-sized contractors, getting the green light from prequalification platforms like ISNetworld, Avetta or Veriforce can delay that timeline and jeopardize projects before they even start. Check Your Hiring Blind Spots Before They Cost You

You wouldn't pour a foundation without a level, and you wouldn't wire a building without a plan. But many business owners hire without a structured approach to assess people, identify key behaviors or predict how someone will actually perform once they're out of the interview chair and on the jobsite.
