

Code of Ethics

I abide by the American Tarot Association's Code of Ethics

I will serve the best interests of my clients, conducting my professional activities without causing or intending to cause harm.

I will treat all my clients with equal respect, regardless of their origin, race, religion, gender, age, or sexual preference.

I will represent honestly my Tarot qualifications, including educational credentials, levels of certification and experience.

I will keep confidential the names of clients and all information shared or discussed during readings, unless otherwise requested by the client or required by a court of law.

I will recommend clients consult a licensed professional for advice of a legal, financial, medical, or psychological nature that I am not qualified to provide.

I will discuss and agree upon all fees with my clients in advance. Should a client wish to proceed beyond the originally agreed arrangement, all additional fees will be discussed and agreed upon by both parties before proceeding.

I will respect my clients' right to refuse or terminate their reading at any time, regardless of prior consent.

Additionally

To protect the privacy of others, I will not read on a third party (e.g. "Does John really love Sally?"). Where possible, I will rephrase the question to focus the reading on what is directly related to the client.

I will provide guidance and insight, but I will not make definitive predictions nor take away the free will of my clients.

I will only read for clients under 18 years old with the permission of a parent or guardian.

*I reserve the right to refuse a reading if I feel it is outside my expertise or goes against my code of ethics.

*I do not invoke or remove spells or curses.

A Tarot reading, along with any advice or predictions, is based on the current energy in that moment. Please know the ability to manifest or change any part of a reading is in your hands. Although I am here to support you and I attempt to provide you with my best interpretation, ultimately no one knows what is right or true for you more than you do. Be curious, but at the end of the day trust your own inner guidance and wisdom above all.
