Plus-size teens. If there's one huge demographic that the fashion world is failing at, it would be teenagers, especially plus sized. This group is at that age where they like to discover things around them and about them like their body. The difficulty of finding an outfit that makes them look flattering can be a huge cause of anxiety. Looking forward to dressing them up in comfortable and trendy outfits? Bring it on.

Start with your chosen niche and find sellers. Don't think you can serve them all.

2

PLUS-SIZE BRIDES TO BE

Here's the fact: brides are generally anxious before the wedding. Let this be your goal in mind-help them overcome the dress stress. A one-stop-shop for wedding dresses would make their life easier. Find sellers that offer multiple options in designs, lengths, shapes and silhouettes. Consider the personality as well. Some brides would opt for modest to very modest. There's also those who want trendy but not provocative. As an add on, ensure that you have virtual stylists ready to help out.

PLUS-SIZE GYM RATS

Number 1 rule: quality over anything else. Lots of plus size activewear brands are flourishing with their own claim of being the best in the market but whoever offers something of high quality fabric and functionality is the winner. Based on our survey, plus size people are looking for something with a thick waistband and lots of sculpting features (think of low and high compression). They want athletic wear that provides them freedom of movement and helps smoothen out uneven areas or imperfections.

4

PLUS SIZE OFFICE WEAR

Nowadays, everyone is talking about versatility. People need an outfit that they can dress up or down and or something they can wear in the office to soiree. Think about dressing up people with a busy life. Make their life easier by saving them time. Provide options of comfortable and trendy dress codes that showcase their individuality and sense of style. Move over those frumpy outfits already.

5

PLUS- SIZE KIDS' OUTFIT

This could be one of the most promising niches in the fashion world. As former fashion associates, we know it. We saw how difficult it is for parents to shop appropriate outfits for their plus size kids. Sometimes, they do not have a choice but to settle for adult clothing. For sure, they also want to wear the same outfit as their friends.

6

PLUS SIZE FASHION FOR GENERAL LABORERS

This demographic needs a uniform that is durable due to the nature of their job that calls for a lot of movement. When we say durability, something that does not rip off easily. Their outfit calls for a special garment that provides them with special protection like flame resistant, knee protection and functionality. Just how many pockets do they need? A lot.

7

PLUS- SIZE FASHION FOR HOSPITAL PATIENTS

Enough with the boring hospital gown already. Look for sellers that provide options like kimono wraps and shorts. Patients need better adaptive clothing that is durable, comfortable and provides good coverage. They must be very easy to wear and change, especially for the disabled.

8

PLUS SIZE FASHION FOR NURSES AND PHYSICIANS

Need we say something about this? The nature of their job calls for a lot of mobility. Therefore, these hardworking people need an outfit that has got a lot of stretch, moisture wicking and odor resistant. Talk about elevated workwear-not only functional but also beautiful.

9

PLUS- SIZE FASHION FOR THE ELDERLY

We are not talking about adaptive nor disability apparel here. Like their younger counterpart, elderly people who are still able and energetic to hang out with their friends also need to look fashionable. This demographic has a totally different fashion taste and is very particular to the style that they want. Don't even worry about pricing here-they've got a pension.
