NATIONAL AND HISTORIC TREASURE RESTORED IN TUCSON

A national treasure, with a musical note, has been restored in Tucson. The White House piano, once owned by former President Calvin Coolidge, is back to its former glory thanks to Tucsonan Jens Witter. We doubled checked and found that Coolidge willed the 1909 Grand Piano to his niece Kathryn Coolidge. Witter later bought it and restored it. He plans to donate the piano to a church in Los Angeles.
