

Africa for sustainable development Fellowship

Introduction
COHORT 3 Profiles

Caroline Rebekah – Diplomat/SDGs Enthusiast/Peace Advocate

Caroline Rebekah Atieno is Diplomat by profession, she holds a Bachelor of Arts in International Relations and Diplomacy, she is deeply committed to humanitarian causes and she is an active member of the Red Cross. Additionally, she is passionate advocate for peace.

Currently, she serves as the Kenyan Ambassador with Tribal Freedom Fighters, whose headquarters is based in South Africa dedicated to combating tribalism by promoting peace and unity.

As a participant in the Africa for Sustainable Development Goals Fellowship, she has gained extensive knowledge and experience in the various aspects of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), with a particular focus on SDG No 16.

During the fellowship, she worked collaboratively to develop a significant project aimed at establishing a Community Mediation and Conflict Resolution Centre. The motivation behind this project is to address crucial issues such as mental stress leading to severe consequences, domestic violence, neighbour disputes, and other conflicts within our community.

ADDITIONAL INITIATIVE

Beyond this project, she has initiated "Diplomatic Solutions for Children" as a program in line with SDG No 16 and 4, with the goal of providing support to children affected by conflicts. This program is a work in progress, and she is committed to making a significant impact on the lives of these children.

She looks forward to further contributing to these vital causes and creating a positive impact in her community and beyond.

KEY ACHIEVEMENTS

1. Bachelor of Arts in International Relations and Diplomacy.(Honours)
2. Active member of the Red Cross.
3. Peace advocate.
4. Kenyan Ambassador with Tribal Freedom Fighters.
5. Participant in the Africa for Sustainable Development Goals Fellowship.
6. Initiation of the "Diplomatic Solutions for Children" program, addressing SDG No 16 and 4.

